

PREPAREDNESS FAVORED BY PRESIDENT RUSSELL UNDER FIRE IN LIQUOR PERMIT TRIAL

WITNESS SAYS LATE
JESS SMITH GIVEN
$25,000 AS FIXER

Drug Company Head Says
Copeland Told Him
To Flee

Cleveland, June 3.—The government, after linking all three defendants in the Hayner conspiracy by the testimony of six witnesses, yesterday, will probably complete its case late today.

Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general said that unless delayed by prolonged cross examination the prosecution would rest.

Yesterday Joshua E. Russell, suspended federal prohibition director and M. B. Copeland, his chief clerk, defendants were the objects of the government's assault.

Taking the witness stand, H. M. Paul, assistant prohibition director, Armand A. Gardos, head of the Armand Drug and Candy Company, who fled the country, when trouble threatened the Hayner plot, Agnes Specht, stenographer, in the prohibition office at Columbus and John G. Harper, prohibition inspector, all dealt severe blows to Russell and Copeland.

Assistant Director Paul declared he had shown Russell permits for the Armand Drug and Candy Company for 2,250 gallons on two occasions.

"He made no comment, however," Paul stated.

Armand Gardos told of a hurried trip to Columbus to consult with Copeland.

"The government agents from Washington were getting hot on my trail. Grossberg advised me to leave the country. I drove to Columbus and called Copeland from the Seneca Hotel. Going to his home, I told him that things were getting hot. He said: 'There will be charges brought against you so you had better flee. The trouble is from Washington and it is over our heads,' Gardos declared Copeland said.

Gardos also told of the time Copeland came to Cleveland and demanded to see his record. He said that Copeland took away his permits and he immediately got in touch with Harry Grossberg, whom he said told him not to worry and he stated it was Copeland. Two hours later he got the permits back. When he obtained the permits from Copeland, former Senator Frank Norwood at the time a division prohibition chief, was present. Describing the scene, Gardos said:

"Mr. Copeland said meet Senator Norwood. I shook hands with the senator, who immediately turned his back and Copeland gave me back the permits."

Agnes Specht, Columbus, who had charge of writing up permits during Russell's administration, could not remember various details concerning the reports she had written up, until her memory was refreshed by the vigorous questioning of Mrs. Willebrandt. She finally identified Copeland's initials and "ok" on one of the reports.

The outstanding sensation of the day came when Abe Ungerleider, Columbus broker, declared that he and Grossberg had given $25,000 to Warren Barrett for Jess Smith, who committed suicide later in Washington.

Smith was a close friend of Harry Daugherty, former attorney general. The money Ungerleider said, was to "fix things at Washington."

CONDITION SERIOUS

Boston, June 3.—Chances for the recovery or death of Secretary of War John W. Weeks was even it was stated today at Phillips House, Massachusetts general hospital where the secretary was convalescing from an operation for gall stones. A physician was stationed at the bedside throughout the night.

OSBORN COMING

Osborn, of Youngstown, Mr. Osborn and his staff of officers will be guests of the Greene County Klan next Monday evening. Members from Dayton, Springfield, Wilmington and Warren County will be in attendance. Special plans are being laid for the entertainment of the state officers which will be in the nature of a social gathering.

SITUATION TENSE

London, June 3.—The political situation in Italy is becoming tense, according to private advices received here today.

Fascist extremists took the body of the slain deputy, Matteotti, from a tomb in the Fratte Polesine cemetery near Venice and threw it into the canal, the advices said.

Rain May Bring Relief

Partly Cloudy Wednesday, with probable thundershowers Wednesday afternoon or night and on Thursday; continued warm.

COOLING SHOWERS MAY BRING RELIEF TO HEAT SUFFERERS

Wind and Rainstorms
Claim Two Deaths In Minnesota.

Cleveland, O., June 3.—Cooling showers may come this afternoon. U. S. Weatherman Emery predicted this morning to slightly ameliorate the sweltering heat under which Cleveland and other parts of the middle west have suffered since Monday. For three hours yesterday, the mercury registered 91 degrees and a temperature almost as high may be recorded again.

Five deaths and one protraction due to the hot wave were reported in the state. Three persons, Russell Ward, 12, of Lorain; Carl A. Duncan, 15 and an unidentified man, both of Toledo, were drowned. Mrs. Alice Wise, 67, of Dayton, fainted while ironing and died soon afterwards, and Mrs. Magdalena Helget, 84, of Sandusky, succumbed to the intense heat.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 3.—With 24 dead, 24 injured and great property damage, as the result of last night's terrific wind and rainstorm, that struck the twin cities and surrounding territory, the toll of dead and injured is expected to mount when communication with the storm swept area is restored.

MORE THAN 1,000 ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND BANKERS' MEETING

Columbus, O., June 3.—More than 1,000 are expected to attend the 35th annual convention of the Ohio Bankers Association, which will be convened here this afternoon, for a three day meeting. B. G. Huntington, Columbus, is president; S. A. Reach, Columbus, secretary and W. R. Myers, Canton, treasurer.

Following the report of the president at the opening session this afternoon speakers will include Dr. William C. Thompson, president of Ohio State University and Luther K. Ball traffic manager of the United States air mail service who will explain how banking business may be speeded up by use of the air mails. W. A. Ackerman, Mt. Vernon, chairman, will give the report of the council.

Among the speakers scheduled at Thursday's meetings are John H. McCoy, Marietta, Gray Silver, president of the Grain Marketing Company, Chicago; Manley C. Hudson, Remis Professor of international law at Harvard; W. C. Metz, Newark, and C. F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research corporation Dayton.

HOLD WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY IS NOT SUBJECT TO DAMAGES

Holding that Wilberforce University is not subject to damage suit since it is state property, the State Supreme Court Tuesday reversed a judgment for $5,000 obtained in the lower courts against the institution for injuries received from a fall on the university property.

Grace Green, a student at the University, brought suit in Common Pleas Court for $20,000 damages for personal injuries resulting from alleged negligence in leaving a man hole open on the grounds controlled jointly by Wilberforce University proper and the board of trustees of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department of the University.

She obtained a verdict for $5,000 in Common Pleas Court and this judgment was affirmed by the Court of Appeals when the defendant appealed the case on error.

The Court of Appeals held that the board of trustees of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department was not a branch of the state but constituted a separate organization from the state and capable of being sued. The university proper and the normal and industrial departments were held jointly responsible.

Attorney C. L. Darlington, Xenia, represented Grace Green in the case. Attorney C. H. Kyle, Xenia, represented the university proper and Attorney Arthur H. Wickes, Columbus, acting as special counsel for Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, represented the combined normal and industrial department.

ONE MAN PARADE HALTS STREET TRAFFIC

Spokane, Wash., June 3.—A one man parade, with reviewing stands and all the fixin's, drew crowds to Riverside Avenue, Spokane's main thoroughfare, when Thomas O'Brien, veteran Indian fighter of the Northwest, pranced serenely up the street while the sidewalk crowds roared and cheered. It was the most unique spectacle Spokane has seen.

The parade formed at the usual assembling point for large circus and patriotic bodies. It was mounted. It was colorful, in fact, typically Western. It rode its horse splendidly and its head was high. It carried a permit from the City Council to hold up street cars and traffic as it went.

O'Brien chased Indians all over the eastern Washington and northern Idaho hills in the pioneer days. This week he asked permission to stage his own parade. Indians on the Colville reservation north of Spokane, protested. Now they promise a counter spectacle, featuring red skins who have pale-face scalps to their credit.

STRIKE SITUATION IN SHANGHAI WORSE DISPATCHES STATE

Communist Agents Blamed
—Rioters Fire On American Troopers.

London, June 3.—The situation in Shanghai, where Chinese have gone on a general strike, was described as "worse" in dispatches from Shanghai today to the Evening Sun.

Communist agents were blamed for the strike of 3,000 Chinese. Public service was reported to be greatly interrupted with a shortage of meat and other food impending. Sniping was continuing and 2,000 troops were reported enroute to quell the strikers.

Rioting strikers yesterday opened fire on American troops marching in Burkill road, killing two horses and wounding an American doctor, Thomas G. McMartin. The rioters were dispersed with machine gun fire. Hundreds of rioters, prepared to attack from positions on roof tops, were arrested.

Pekin, China, June 3.—Students generally were going on strike here early today as a protest against the action of foreigners in suppressing disorder in Shanghai growing out of the strike there.

The "foreigners" are American, British and Italian bluejackets who have landed from war vessels of their respective countries to protect the lives and property of subjects of the three countries.

SCOUT MEET OFF

In view of the Boy Scout track and field meet to be held near the Adair Cottage on the Little Miami River Wednesday afternoon, there will be no regular meeting of Troop No. 1 Wednesday night. Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury announced.

All Scouts are invited to the track meet Wednesday afternoon which begins at 2 o'clock and parents will also be welcomed. A picnic supper will feature the outing Wednesday evening.

A resolution passed by Xenia Local Streetcleaners Union, was aimed at a man caught frying eggs on the pavement of East Main Street, in front of the Court House, Tuesday shortly after noon.

The resolution said the egg-frying process would leave a grease stain which would spread like a new scandal at a sewing party. As a result of the resolution officials issued a mandate with a red seal. They said they had no objections to pedestrians boiling eggs in the water of the public fountain, if the water gets that hot. Personally, they said they didn't think it did.

The citizen who supervised the frying of the egg said there were enough hard-boiled eggs here now without boiling more.

"I'm Long Missing Charley Ross," Farmer Avers

DANIEL PETERS

PETERS' HOME

SCENE OF KIDNAPING

Has Charley Ross been found at last? Daniel Peters, York county, Pa., farmer, believes he is the missing Charley, who was kidnapped from his home in Philadelphia in 1874, and is investigating the mystery of his parentage. One Joseph Douglas confessed he was the kidnaper, but died before revealing the boy's whereabouts. Peters tells a strange story involving a gypsy camp, a death-bed plea of a mother he once supposed was his mother, and of mysterious doings of the man he was led to believe was his father.

KING OF DOCUMENT FAKERS ARRESTED IN BERLIN; CAUSED PLOTS ALL OVER EUROPE

Berlin, June 3.—The "king of the document fakers" is under arrest, Berlin political police announced today.

In the capture of the Russian, Drushelovsky, the German operatives believe they have run down the forger who for months has been weaving a net of plots all over Europe, making a livelihood by fostering race hatreds and animosities, and who has been successful, they believe, in the overthrow of a cabinet by his machinations. It is possible the mysterious trail on the Zinoviev letter, published during the campaign which saw the defeat of the Ramsay MacDonald cabinet in England, may be cleared up by investigation of Drushelovsky's operations.

This letter purported to be a communication from the soviet foreign minister to MacDonald then British premier, suggesting MacDonald could aid in spreading communistic propaganda in Great Britain. Official Moscow branded the letter a forgery. MacDonald made it the subject of a sharp note to Russia.

Not a world power but what has been touched by the machinations of the super-faker, the police asserted.

The spurious documents brought to light with Drushelovsky's arrest include: An alleged order from the soviet foreign ministry to secret communist spies in America announcing a remittance of $20,000 for the poisoning of Attorney General Warren;

An order for agents to stake posts toward the removal of strained relations between Senator Borah and President Coolidge;

Documents purporting to show the soviet plotted the Sved Kral cathedral catastrophe, in Sofia, where 160 lives were lost.

OSLO, NOW IN LIMELIGHT, WAS FORMERLY CHRISTIANIA; RE BUILT ON RUINS OF FIRE

New York, June 3.—Oslo, whose dateline now figures so often in the news of Amundsen, the Norwegian polar explorer, is the rechristened capital of Norway. It was founded in 1047 and has a population of 242,000.

Since January 1, by royal decree, it has been known as Oslo, the old name of the city and a name older than the town. Before King Harald Hadrade built the famous St. Mary's Church, in the eleventh century, the site has been used since time immemorial as a fair grounds.

Oslo was known as Oslo until 1624 when a great fire ruined the greater part of the city. Whereupon King Christian IV. ordered the inhabitants to move a mile farther west under the guns of the Akershus fortress. There he planned the present town and named it after himself—Christiania.

The friction between Norway and Sweden over the dispute as to the ownership of Greenland overcame the inertia against changing the name of the town. The Lower House of the Storting, or Congress, last June passed a bill to change the name of the town. On July 4, 1924, the Upper House made the bill law. It came into effect January 1, the city council having requested that the change not be effective until after the centenary of Christiania last September.

The city is now nearly all modern, but built on the original designs of King Christian. The chief industries are iron foundries, weaving, spinning and paper mills. Huge quantities of matches are also made there. The shipping trade is extensive.

TOO HOT TO ARGUE! THAT WAS XENIA CITIZENS TUESDAY

The egg-frying was a laboratory experiment in which the laboratory was done away with, he said, leaving only the egg and sun's rays. The experiment was marred by one disheartening feature. If he had left the egg in its shell the sun would have hatched it instead of cooking it. As it was, he cracked the shell and the egg ran away.

It was so hot in Xenia Tuesday the mercury in the thermometers got lazy and refused to move out of its tracks. It went into a state of apathy somewhere around the ninety mark. Any reference to the exact figure is carefully omitted for the sake of peace. A newspaper never printed a thermometer reading yet without somebody calling up over the telephone to argue about it.

It was so hot that when an ice-man dropped a 300 pound cake of ice out of a truck and went back to get it, it had melted. A man who carried two ice cream cones across the street found he had nothing but the empty cone when he got there. A fat man who stood on the corner of Main and Detroit Streets for ten minutes, lost twenty pounds and an amiable disposition. Read the classified ads.

MISS DONAHEY WILL BE WED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AT 4 P. M.

Ceremony To Be Performed By
Bridegroom's Brother With
Brothers Attending

Columbus, O., June 3.—Miss Margaret Donahey, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Donahey, will be married here at 4 o'clock this afternoon to James Wylie Huffman, of Chancellerville, executive secretary of the governor, at the first wedding ceremony to be performed at the executive mansion.

A public reception will be held following the ceremony. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Frank H. Huffman, Baltimore, Md., a brother of Mr. Huffman.

Miss Donahey will be given away by her father.

Mr. Huffman will be attended by Dr. J. M. Huffman, of Springfield, as best man and Robert F. Donahey, brother of the bride, as groom's man. Miss Donahey will wear a wedding robe of heavy ivory satin, trimmed with bands of lace outlined with pearls. She will also wear a veil of real lace and an orange blossom coronet which was worn by her mother at her wedding and by Mrs. J. H. Donahey of Cleveland, when she married.

FIRST ELECTION LAW REPORT ON JULY 14

Columbus, O., June 3.—First reports on the study of Ohio election laws will be made at a meeting here July 14, of the special legislative elections committee, it was announced today. Five subcommittees will spend the interim in drafting proposed revision of the laws.

One proposal is expected to include substitution of the convention system of the primary system in selection of party candidates for elective offices.

RECEIVERSHIP OF COMPANY ENDED

Columbus, O., June 3.—Receivership of the Phoenix Portland Cement Company, subsidiary of the ill-fated R. L. Dillings Company, has been terminated and management of the company restored to its officers. It was announced here today.

Stabilized income is now expected through royalties on cement manufactured at its Birmingham, Ala., plant.

There was lots of weather in Xenia Tuesday, but it was all hot. The bureau promises little relief unless thunderstorms sweeping western states arrive here on schedule. If they are lost in Indiana and never reach the United States, Xenia will continue to swelter.

COOLIDGE PLEDGES SUPPORT TO DEFENSE IN ANNAPOLIS TALK

Tells Naval Graduates Defense Is National Duty Of Citizen

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—President Coolidge, speaking as commander in chief of the American military establishment today pledged himself finally and absolutely to adequate national preparedness.

Addressing the 1925 graduating class of the U. S. naval academy here the executive gave his unqualified support to an army, a navy and a reserve qualified in every way to guarantee national security. He urged only that maintenance of the national defense be governed in such fashion as to make it "an instrument of righteousness" rather than a display of "mere naked force."

"The true spirit of American institutions requires that each citizen should be potentially a soldier ready to take his place in the ranks in time of peril, either in the field or in the necessary productive activity," he told the young naval officers.

The president admonished all men of the service, however, against preaching the gospel of preparedness on the plea that other world powers are arming against the United States.

Declaring that the suggestion that any other people are harboring a hostile intent toward us, is a "very serious charge," he said, "it seems to me perfectly proper for anyone upon any suitable occasion to advocate the maintenance of a navy in keeping with the greatness and dignity of our country. But as one who is responsible not only for our national defense, but likewise for our friendly relations with other peoples and our little too good opinion of the world, I feel that the occasion will very seldom arise and I know it does not now exist, when those connected with our navy are justified, either directly or by inference in asserting that other specified powers are arming against us and by arousing national suspicion and hatred, attempting to cause us to arm against them."

The duty of national defense, Mr. Coolidge said, is analogous to the general duty of citizenship and "should be broadly extended and borne by all the people." He declared that a proper display of military force was "the background of security."

NAVAL MANEUVERS DESCRIBED BY RICE AT KIWANIS MEETING

The first of the summer monthly meetings was held by the Xenia Kiwanis Club, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday evening.

H. E. Rice, Xenia newspaperman, who accompanied the United States naval fleet to Hawaii for army and navy maneuvers, gave a vivid account of his trip, as the chief speaker of the evening. He told of the trip to Honolulu and the rough sea weather encountered.

Eight hundred officers held a secret meeting after the fleet arrived at the port and the 400 conflicting points of the maneuvers were decided but the truth as to who won the mimic war will never be known he said. He discussed the merits of the airplane and the battleship and said that the battle ship has no defense against an airplane or submarine. Both the planes and battleships have merits and demerits he said, but he favored the former for warfare.

Mr. Rice described the elaborate feasts given the newspapermen and officers during their stay. Honolulu was one large park, he said, the tropical vegetation growing profusely over the city.

J. Kenneth Williamson, past president of the club, who is leaving soon to establish his home in West Palm Beach, Fla., was called on for a short talk, in which he expressed his pleasure in being a Kiwanian and his appreciation of the fellowship with the local members. The response on behalf of the club members was given by the Rev. W. H. Telford who expressed the regret of the club in losing Mr. Williamson.

It was announced that the next meeting of the club would be held at Antioch Glen, Yellow Springs, the first Tuesday in July.

HALF-HOLIDAY EDITION

Because of the annual observance of the Wednesday half-holiday program, the Wednesday issue of the Evening Gazette is published at noon.

This plan will prevail throughout June, July and August, along with the half-holiday program adopted by many Xenia merchants and in effect this week for the first time.

There will be no change in the time of publication of The Morning Republican.

XENIA GOLFERS TO MEET DAYTON CLUB OVER DAYTON LINKS

Four representatives of the Xenia Country Club were scheduled to play the third match for Xenia in the Dayton District Golf Association League with the Community Golf Club of Dayton over the foreign links Wednesday afternoon. The match was to begin at 1 o'clock.

Chalmers Murphy, chairman of the tournament committee, was undecided Wednesday morning what players would represent Xenia in the match.

Xenia was defeated 4 to 0 in the opening match with the MacGregor Club of Dayton but recovered itself in the match with the Dayton Miami Valley Club last week and walked off the links with a 3 to 1 victory.

The Community Club eighteen hole course is considered one of the most picturesque but at the same time hazardous in this section of Ohio and tests the ability of a golfer.

The holes are beautifully placed but are extremely long and the short distance shot is somewhat handicapped. Hazards are natural and it will be remembered that the National Public Links championship was determined over the Community course two years ago.

June, and the Telephone

ROMANTIC June, with its weddings and graduations, brings many urgings to the American heart to be off to some distant place.

Why not go, when the campus calls to the colors, when sons and daughters want your presence at commencements, when you feel the stir to be somewhere else, as audience or actor?

With long distance to serve, you can be wherever you want to be. There are 16,000,000 telephones in the nation-wide communications service built for your use. One of them is always near to send back decisions and desires to home or office, or carry words of love or greeting to places that call your thoughts.

The romance of life is in the air, and the great romance of modern days—universal telephone service—is yours to further it.

The public is always welcome to visit any Bell exchange, to see how the calls are handled, and have all the operating details explained by employees.

FIRST OF SUMMER MISSION MEETS HELD

The first of the summer country meetings of the Women's Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl McClellan on the Upper Bellbrook Pike.

The parlors and porches were made lovely with Chinese lanterns and profusion of flowers. After the praise service, led by Mrs. Jeanette Anderson, Miss Jennie Moffett told interestingly of her work with the Social Service League.

Mrs. Ed Moust had arranged a program on China. She was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Hutchison in presenting two chapters of "Ming Kwong," a text book on Chinese missionary work.

Mrs. Frank Dodds, who spent several years as a medical missionary in China, gave an interesting and instructive account of the worship of the Chinese Buddhists in an address on "The Holy Mountain of Taienshan." Her talk was illustrated by a Chinese map, pictures, and native costumes.

Little Betty Jean McClellan closed the program with a vocal solo. After the business session, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served, the cakes being decorated with Chinese characters.

Mrs. McClellan was assisted by Mrs. D. M. Kyle, Mrs. A. D. Carver, and Mrs. Frank Hastings. Fifty-nine women enjoyed the afternoon.

MISSIONARY MEETING HELD TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Second Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, met at the home of Mrs. John Barnett of South-Detroit Street, Tuesday afternoon, for the regular meeting and election of officers.

After the regular business had been transacted, the election of officers was held with the following results, president, Mrs. J. Thorb Charters; first vice president, Mrs. J. H. Whitmer; second vice president, Mrs. L. A. Parrett; recording secretary, Miss Lorena Paulin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Keyes; treasurer, Mrs. Lena Chambliss; literature secretary, Mrs. Harry Sohn; mite box secretary, Miss Amy St. John; evangelism, Mrs. C. L. Sepence; titling, Miss Cora Williams; temperance, Mrs. W. O. Custis; education, Mrs. A. E. Faulkner; bequests, Mrs. M. J. Bebb, supplies, Miss Bertha Hook, and thank offering, Mrs. Charles Riddell.

A delicious refreshment course was served by the hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. John Barnett, Mrs. Oren Ledbetter, Mrs. Harvey Coates, Mrs. Hannah Turner, Mrs. W. O. Custis, Miss Edith Miller, Miss Straley and Mrs. Otto Hornick.

Plans were made for the annual picnic of the society to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Sohn, on Home Avenue, in July. The exact date for the picnic will be announced later.

MISS RINCK TO BE FETED AT PARTIES

A series of parties has been planned, honoring Miss Florence Rinck, West Market Street, whose marriage to Mr. James Paulin will take place Wednesday, June 10, at the Rinck home.

The first of the series will be given by Mrs. H. L. Sayre at her home on North King Street, Wednesday afternoon. Guests for four tables of bridge have been invited.

Mrs. C. J. Kunka and Mrs. Alvin Belt of Dayton, are entertaining Wednesday evening at bridge, in Miss Rinck's honor. Miss Lorena Paulin will entertain guests for three tables of bridge, Saturday afternoon. Other affairs are also being planned.

Mrs. Ira Stowe, Dayton, and Mrs. Wright Maddox, of Frankfort, were the only out-of-town guests.

SPRINGFIELD PARTY

Miss Cleo Rockfield, whose marriage to Mr. Wilbur Dorst, of Springfield, will take place Saturday, was complimented by Miss Ada Vance of Springfield, who entertained with six tables of bridge Tuesday evening at her home. The affair was also a kitchen "shower" for the bride-elect.

REV. AND MRS. LYTLE RECEIVE PARISHIONERS

Everything contributed to make the reception of the Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Lytle, for members of the First United Presbyterian Church congregation, at their new home on East Church Street, Tuesday afternoon, a joyful occasion.

There were no formalities, wives of the trustees and building committee assisting in welcoming the guests. Groups were received from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and during the evening.

A profusion of roses and other flowers that shed beauty and fragrance throughout the rooms, added to the charm of the afternoon.

Young women served delicious refreshments and the men, who had been specially interested in the construction of the manse, busied themselves showing the many advantages of the pastor's home. The beauty of the whole occasion was the harmony which exists between pastor and people and the affair was one of the most enjoyable held in the congregation.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church will be entertained Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. S. K. Collins and Mrs. I. S. Dines, on West Third Street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Wead North Detroit Street, attended a surprise party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weiss, in Yellow Springs, Monday evening.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Latham of Bellbrook, where the Rev. Mr. Latham has been pastor at the Presbyterian Church, are leaving next Tuesday for New York and will sail on the Majestic June 13 for England, for an extended stay.

Mrs. J. W. Allen of Dayton and her son, Dr. R. A. Allen of Chicago, were visitors Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler, West Market Street.

An open meeting of the missionary society of the Old Town Church will be held Friday evening, June 5, at 8 o'clock.

The Xenia W. C. T. U., will meet at the home of Mrs. M. E. Dixon, 718 South Detroit Street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A semi-annual Sunday School convention will be held at Lumberton Church, next Sunday, June 7, at 2 o'clock. An address will be given by the Rev. H. L. Leasure, of Sabina, on the subject, "Investments."

Mrs. Curtis Clemmer (Miss Thelma Houk) is taking treatment for her eyes at Dr. Vale's Hospital in Cincinnati. She is improving and expects to return home in a week.

The Berean Bible Class of the Reformed Church will hold its regular monthly social meeting Thursday evening, June 4, at the home of Mrs. R. C. Ferris, North Detroit Street. Every member is urged to be present.

Mrs. S. H. Staggers of Caracas, Venezuela, South America, is visiting her parents, Professor and Mrs. D. H. Barnes, of High Street. Mrs. Staggers came by the way of Porto Rico and stopped in San Juan for a week's visit. She will remain here five months and Mr. Staggers will join her in the fall for a two months vacation, before returning home.

Mrs. C. O. Arbogust of Chicago after spending several days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Maddux, of near Xenia, is now visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Arbogust of North King Street. Mr. Arbogust will join his wife Friday for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kaiser, North Detroit Street, left the first of the week for Martinsville, Ind., where Mr. Kaiser will take medical treatment. Charles Kaiser and George McKay accompanied them by motor returning immediately to Xenia.

Mrs. R. C. Britton and two sons, Howard and Robert North, of Richmond, Ind., have returned home after spending several days in this city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. North. They were in attendance at the commencement exercises of the Central High School where John North, Jr., was one of the graduates.

Miss Mabel Foster and Miss Geneva Smith, teachers at McKinley School, are leaving Thursday for their home in Peebles, O. Miss Smith will return next term but Miss Foster has resigned and her marriage to Mr. Palmer of Peebles will take place this month.

THEY WON PREMIER ROLL HONORS

Miss Louise Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wood, West Main Street and William Horner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Horner, West Second Street, were chosen by their classmates of the graduating class of Central High School, to receive the Premier Rose. The custom of bestowing the rose on two members of the senior class was inaugurated four years ago, and denotes the appreciation of the class to the two students giving the best service to their class and school.

COLLEGE STUDENTS PRESENT PAGEANT ON ANNUAL PROGRAM

"Springtime," a pageant in four episodes, was scheduled as the feature of the Cedar Day program at Cedarville College, Wednesday afternoon. The pageant will be presented on the campus at 4 o'clock, central standard time and a large number of the students will take part.

The opening of the pageant, or the first episode is entitled "The Capture of Proserpina," with the entrance of Ceres, goddess of the seasons, with her daughter, Proserpina and eight Grecian maidens. The Grecian maidens welcome Ceres with a dance. Cupid appears and shoots a dart at Pluto and another at Proserpina. Pluto, god of the underworld, seizes Proserpina and carries her away to become queen of the underworld. The Grecian maidens give a dance of pity and consolation for Ceres.

The second episode is entitled "A Message from Jupiter," water nymphs, entering, bearing Proserpina's green girdle. Ceres believes her daughter has been swallowed by the earth and pronounces a curse of winter on the earth. Winter, North Wind and Snowflakes enter and give a dance.

"Proserpina Crowned Queen," is the title of the third episode. A messenger from the gods enters and tells Ceres that her daughter may return for six months of the year. Ceres then alters her curse, making winter six months and summer six months. The May procession enters, bringing Proserpina, whom Ceres crowns Queen of the May, of Goddess of Spring.

The fourth and final episode is the May Day Dances, including the flower dance, May Pole Dance and Recessional, the conclusion.

The characters are: Ceres, goddess of season, Alberta Owens; Proserpina, May Queen, Lois Cummings; water nymph, Ruth Barnes; Winter,

Mary Webster, messenger, Lois Estle; herald, Esta Hamer; pages, Kathleen Kyle, and Ada McKay; Pluto, Wilma Batdorf; flower girls, Freda Crowell, Elizabeth Lackey, Isabelle Clark and Glennis Lambert. Two solo dances, one by the "North Wind," Elizabeth Gifford and the other by Ann Ord, are features of the program.

Students who take part in the various dances are: Flower Dance, Hazel Barber, Mary Townsley, Martha Beam, Betty Barnett, June Thompson, Edith Bone, Rosetta McMillan, Lella Lamar, Lillian Gilbert, Ollis Har, Alice Wolf and Helen Wike; Snowflake Dance, Una Harbison, Mabel Harner, Eva Crumley, Margaret Michener, Lorena Sharp, Lucille Anderson, Ruth Burbick; Maypole Dance, Evelyn Anders, Erma Kinnison, Mildred Aldrich, Wilda Bickett, Dorothy Wilson, Lois Manor, Lois McFarland, Harriett Kyle, Sybil Robison, Ruffi Dobbins, Verne Boase, Ethel Long and Dorothy Pyles. The Grecian maidens are: Grace Constance, Helen Hlifo, Eleanor Johnson, Elizabeth Creswell, Harriet Shields, Mary Wright, Nellie Boase, Ruth McPherson.

The beauty of the pageant will lie in the costumes representing the different characters and the setting of woodland beauty of the campus.

The annual faculty and senior reception for students and alumni of the college was held in the Reformed Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening. The church parlors were elaborately decorated and orchestra music was furnished during the reception. Refreshments were served.

Thirty Says.

I'm a Press Agent!

Well folks, I've got some job!

Three of 'em!

I went over to Mr. Sayre and after telling him that I wanted a press agent job with no work except telling the world what a fine man he was and what a fine store he had and that I didn't know nothing about drugs he fainted and after being brought to, he up and hired me while he was still a little weak. I'm to write a piece for the paper about him each week in return for which he gives me the run of the store, all the chewing tobacco I need, two tubes of shaving cream, and half a pint of Sloan's Liniment each week.

I didn't do so well with Bill McCallister the Hardware person.

I think now after figgerin' it all out that he don't care for me so much. He liked the idea of having a press agent but when it came to washing he insisted on paying me in washing machines and spades. I asked him what I could do with such things and all he replied with was a dirty—a very dirty—look. He later mentioned that I could use the spade to dig myself up with and now that I've thought it over, I believe he was insinuating that I was dead but didn't know about it. However it's a job.

STILL AGIN WORK!!

The battery man, and tire man, Mr. Kohl and I got mighty chummy and friendly. He asked me what experience I'd had in press agenting and if I was good at it and if I was a hard worker.

FADS KEEP CHINA JUMPING

It was only a couple of years ago that the maids of Cathay sheared their tresses and realized a little pin money in the form of brass "cash" by selling them to manufacturers of hair nets. Then the maids of America took up the bobbed hair fad, sheared their tresses and Chinese exports of hair nets to the United States fell from $4,000,000 in value in 1923 to $1,600,000 in 1924.

The Mah Jong craze struck this country about 1923, and while several of our feminine society leaders were quarreling as to whom should go the credit for introducing the game into this country, China sold us $1,500,000 worth of sets. Last year Mah Jong began to pall and Chinese sales to us dropped to $800,000.

It is a hard job for staid old China to keep up with the fads and fancies of the youngster of the Occident.

MORE TAX CUT PLANS

RECOMMENDATIONS for a decrease in the public revenues by the reduction of some tax rates and the elimination of others, continue to pour in. A recent recommendation put forth by Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey would cut the nation's revenues $235,000,000 which is a sizeable sum.

Congressman Bacharach recommends the elimination of the taxes on automobiles and accessories, on motor boats, jewelry, club dues, and on amusement admissions of less than $1.50. He would reduce the inheritance or estate taxes to a maximum of twenty per cent, applied to estate only of $100,000 or over and would make a similar reduction of the gift tax. All of this would total a reduction of $135,000,000.

In addition the congressman believes that the maximum surtax ought to be twenty per cent, applied to incomes of $15,000 or over. Just how much this would reduce the revenue is a matter of dispute among the experts. Mr. Bacharach asserts also that constant tinkering with the revenue laws upsets business and he would frame a more permanent law, one which would last during the lifetime of the administration at least.

No seventh son of a seventh son can of course predict just what reductions will finally be effected in the next revenue law. The more suggestion, and the more discussion the better, however. It is good to know, at any rate that there will be another substantial cut in the taxes when Congress meets next winter.

WERE NOT SO YOUNG

DR. VALERIA PARKER, of Washington, speaking at the concluding meeting of the International Council of Women, declared that the United States as "a young member of the family of nations," displayed "all the impulsive and selfishness of youth." The lady betrayed before foreign delegates strange unfamiliarity with the comparative age of the United States. Our nation is not one of the younger, but one of the very oldest members of the family of nations. Our national flag is the oldest in Christendom. We are older than united Italy or united Germany. The sixteen new European nations created as the result of the World war, the Portuguese, French and Russian republics are all infants in arms as compared with Uncle Sam. True the people of these nations have long lived under some government, but the American colonies had two hundred and fifty years of existence before the Revolutionary war, with a greater degree of self government than prevailed in most Europe during the same period. What European nation has more of the marks of maturity in its national thinking than has the United States—which are less impulsive or more unselfish?

SPEAKING OF THE BABY

Being her daddy it may be I'm prejudiced and favor Beyond good judgment's boundaries that little tyke's behavior; But knowing what her mother was when I became her suitor, I hold of all the baby girls there never was one cuter.

Her mother must have made them laugh when she was small like Janet, And in that time I fancy she both owned the house and ran it; She surely had a thousand charms the old folks lives to sweeten, But lovely though she must have been our baby has her beaten.

I am not fond of boastfulness, myself I seldom mention,

To what I've done or what I own I'd call no man's attention, But as her daddy I declare without one if or maybe We have in her I love so much a most unusual baby.

The light of love is in her eye, there's music in her chatter There's joy in everything she does, Strangers stand staring at her! And though I'm prejudiced of course, on all this earthly planet I claim of all the lovely babes, the loveliest is Janet.

We cannot keep her three years old—I say it off in sorrow—Age has a place for her to fill in some not far tomorrow, And so for her I have one hope, dearer, than every other, When she grows up I pray she'll be as lovely as her mother.

The time-worn question: "Is the baby a blue baby or a pink baby?" must now be discarded or rather changed. For yellow is today even more popular than pink and blue for infants. Dame Fashion, ever casting about her for innovations, must have been particularly restless when she evolved this new vogue, upsetting an age-old custom. It did seem as if she might let babies alone!

Yet why should not yellow be considered an appropriate "baby color"? It is the color of sunshine—a befitting symbol of the brightness and joy which the little people bring into the world with them. Yellow is also dainty. If you would test its suitability for this new use, just place your baby in a yellow bassinet; he will resemble a little sunflower among the frills and laces.

So I heartily recommend pale yellow for the "new" baby. Here are some of the things I have recently seen in specialty shops and large department stores made in this color:

Yellow-Lined Baby Basket: The basket itself was of willow, painted white. Its padded and quilted lining cover was made of pale yellow China silk. The white ivory hair brush had tiny yellow flowers painted on its back, and the ivory powder box and soap box were decorated to match.

Yellow Bassinet: This was the custom-made swinging kind, of white-enameled willow. Its edge was decorated with a ruffle of yellow silk covered with a shadow lace, both three inches wide. Its soft white eyelet-embroidered pillow case had a yellow silk lining. And the coverlet too was white over yellow.

Yellow Baby Floor Lamp: The up-to-date nursery has a small-sized floor lamp which stands near the bassinet to cast a soft, shaded light on the sleeping infant when Mother wishes to see if all is well. The one I saw was of white wicker. Its wicker shade being lined with yellow silk and edged with a deep gold fringe.

Clothes: In addition to the usual pink or blue knitted or crocheted baby sacques, I saw many pale yellow ones. Yellow baby-ribbon was also used to decorate white garments.

GRATITUDE

I have enough money to get along with—and so that doesn't bother me. I try to look toward the greater rewards of life—gratitude, for instance.

To feel the warmth of approval and appreciation come over you for something you have done, be it great or small, is to taste of the nectar of the gods.

We work for gratitude. We eat, breath, hope and pour the sweat from our brow that we may feed later upon gratitude.

Ingratitude darkens the heart as nothing else.

You can't over-thank sincerely. The dogs that licked the body of poor old Job, when he was in his sorest need, were but trying to pay him back for previous kindnesses.

It isn't enough to smile and accept favors and good turns. Open up your heart and say things—and after the act is over, repeat it. Gratitude in words is sweeter music than any master ever played on flute, violin or harp.

Don't forget your friends. Overlook their rough spots and love their scars, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Cultivate the art of doing little things that you feel will make the recipient happy and pleased.

Oh, I know these things have been said time and time again. Never mind, do them just the same and grow rich and great.

God's office hours are every day—all day—to all who may choose to call.

"God so loved the world that He gave."

"Why! He's Nothing But Skin And Bones"

"MARRY HIM? NEVER"

"Quit kidding me, Agnes; when I get ready to land a man he's got to be a real man with plenty of good healthy flesh on his bones."

"Of course, I dance with Ed; He's a good enough fellow and I just feel sorry for him, but no skinny, hollow cheeked, spindleshanked lath is going to sail the voyage of life with me."

Cheer up, Ed—things aren't as bad as they look to you right now. Many hundreds of skinny, gaunt, emaciated men looked even worse than you do till someone told them about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets (the new way to take Cod Liver Oil) and how it would put pounds of good firm, healthy flesh on their bones in just a few weeks.

Nothing like these health creating, weight producing tablets for skinny, underweight men, as thousands can testify. Start to take them today—60 tablets—60 cents at Sayre & Hemphill's, Sohn's Drug Store, or any real druggist anywhere in North or South America.

And listen; If they don't put 5 pounds of good flesh on you in 30 days, get your money back—that's fair enough, but be sure—very sure that you get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine.

HORNICK AND PRINCE ARE EACH FINED $500 AND COSTS BY COURT

Overruling motions for new trials in each case, Judge S. C. Wright imposed fines of $500 and costs each on H. E. Prince, automobile agent, South Detroit Street, and John Hornick, proprietor of the Hornick Electric Shop, East Main Street, on charges of keeping gambling rooms, in Probate Court Tuesday afternoon.

Prince was charged with allowing Albert Smith, this city, to record wages on horse races, and sell racing pools while Hornick was accused of allowing Bruce Leveck to commit similar offenses at his place of business.

Days of execution were granted Prince and Hornick under $500 bond each, pending a probable attempt by Attorney C. L. Darlington, counsel for the men to appeal the cases.

Prince and Hornick were victims of a strenuous law enforcement campaign waged in Xenia and Greene County, directed by Prosecuting Attorney J. C. Marshall against all forms of gambling.

JAWN M'GRAW FLAT ON HIS BACK STILL GIANTS CARRY ON

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, June 3.—It was the common impression during recent years that deep thinking by John McGraw had jockeyed the New York Giants into their succession of pennants, but a glance at the standing of the clubs this morning, augmented by the fact that McGraw has been horsed shoulder blades for many weeks, rather confutes this theory. Confutes is a five dollar word meaning to leave all wet.

The Giants have won twenty-eight out of forty ball games played to date and most of them have been conducted without the benefit of McGraw's presence on the bench. While he was enjoying extremely bad health, the club was in the hands of Hughie Jennings, who regards deep thinking a pastime for night watchmen. Mr. Jennings favors deep hitting against the center field fence.

McGraw probably telephoned general instructions to Jennings each morning, including his choice of pitcher. But what of the idea that McGraw had to dictate each move of each man on the ball club. He couldn't telephone instructions to a man at the plate, facing a count of two and one.

The most plausible answer is that McGraw doesn't make the Giants today any more than the Giants make McGraw.

In addition to natural speed and power, they happen to be the most versatile lot within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

Take a look at their present lineup. It gives a few highly illuminating facts on the situation. Could the old Cubs have lost Steinfeldt, Johnny Evers and Frank Chance and continue to win? It is doubtful. Could the old Athletics have spared Baker, Collins and McInnis. The answer is 'yes' provided Galli Curci can spare her windpipe.

Yet that is something of the position now occupied by the Giants.

They have lost Frisch, Kelly and Groh from the infield, leaving only Jackson to carry on for the old guard. First, Groh was injured and Lindstrom, the adolescent star, replaced him to the satisfaction of all concerned. Frisch followed Groh to the sidelines; whereupon Kelly moved over from first base to second and Terry stepped into the breach. All remained serene.

Kelly himself was the next casualty. His temporary passing brought in Young from rightfield and the Giants having a plethora of outfielders, no one suffered. It is conceivable that the club might lose another good man, Jackson alone barred, and, play better than .500 baseball.

They are so good that several of their best hitters are in a slump and they don't seem to feel the difference.

SOUTH FACES GREAT DEVELOPMENT SAYS ROGER BABSON IN SECTIONAL SURVEY

Babson Park, Florida, June 3.—Roger W. Babson today issued the second section of his annual Forecast of Business Conditions covering the entire United States. We are privileged to give an exclusive summary of it, as follows:

"History shows that all great countries pass through two distinct economic movements, each being at their height for from fifty to a hundred years. The first of these movements is when the people gradually move from the East westward. In our country this began in 1849, with the discovery of gold in California, although it did not reach its height until after the Spanish War. The great development in California has been during the past twenty-five years. This development from East to West continues until the cheap lands have been taken up; then a second great economic movement starts—namely from North to South. This has been true with every great country, and this second era is just now beginning in the United States. If economic history repeats itself, the South, during the next twenty-five years will develop as the Pacific coast has during the last twenty-five years. This does not mean that the development of the Pacific Coast will stop. Let no one fool himself with this idea, because as the people of China, India and the Far East awake and become consumers of American goods, the Pacific Coast's development will be greater than ever. The most spectacular growth, however, from now on in the United States, will be seen in the South. This is best illustrated by the fact that whereas the bank clearings of the entire country, during the past five years, have increased on an average less than six per cent, it is estimated that the bank clearings of representative cities of Florida, during the same five years, have more than doubled.

"Owing to the good road movement now in full swing, and the fifteen million automobiles in the country, this economic movement from North to South should be much more rapid than the previous movement from East to West. This is all the more true considering the greater prosperity of American people today compared with any previous time. Not only does the South possess wonderful natural resources, a beautiful climate, a cheap land, thus insuring an all year round development, but there are five million additional people who could well afford to spend their winters in the South. By so doing, these people could lengthen their lives, on the average of about ten years, and could spare two or three months from home without any interference with their business. It would be a tremendous economic gain for the nation to extend the lives of these people—the ones who create and develop their home communities and who furnish the initiative for America. We are striving to conserve natural resources but the greatest of all resources are the few people in each community who furnish the courage, energy and capital which makes these respective communities grow.

"Every section of the South," says Mr. Babson, "has great possibilities of growth. Every one of the eleven 'Southern States' has distinct advantages which in each case are unique. For instance, the Carolinas have a seacoast which is unequalled in the world; Tennessee leads in climate for all the year round life; Georgia will be America's greatest textile state; Florida is the one tropical state in the union; Alabama is richest in natural resources and is destined to become the greatest industrial state; Mississippi and Louisiana are rich in timber and other forest products and may ultimately grow most of the pulp used for paper making, while in the meantime these states possess the great Mississippi River, the largest waterway in North America. Arkansas is raising wonderful cotton, which is making the finest automobile tires; Oklahoma is supplying us with oil; while Texas is an empire in itself, the possibilities of which have not yet been scratched. When one considers the statistics of these eleven states, he is astounded with their natural resources, the amount of available land, and their percentage of growth. All the South needs is some more people with character, energy and capital. The latter is especially needed because the South already has a population unsurpassed in character. Money, however, is scarce. Long time loans at reasonable rates of interest are very difficult to get in most sections although the security offered is perfectly good.

"Of course we all know that present business conditions are not now up to normal in many southern states. The South has suffered with the rest of the country. Briefly, the situation is as follows:

"NORTH CAROLINA: Present tendencies not altogether satisfactory, but improvement is in sight. Road construction and new building continues to give employment to most resident craftsmen, but the textile industry has been very quiet resulting in considerable unemployment among textile workers. Statistics, however, forecast a better textile year for 1925, and, if so, North Carolina will benefit therefrom.

"SOUTH CAROLINA: Improvement slight but steady. In a general way, the same comments made for North Carolina can be made for South Carolina also—although the cotton crop of South Carolina was off only 33 per cent in value compared with a decline of 45 per cent in the case of North Carolina. The outlook, however, for both states is better for 1925.

"GEORGIA: Improvement has been interrupted by textile conditions, but all are looking forward to a better year in 1925. The cotton crop in Georgia increased in value over 19 per cent compared with last year, while corn showed an increase of 7 percent and tobacco of over 100 percent. Were it not for the textile situation, Georgia would have had an extra good year in 1924 and with the improved textile outlook all are looking very hopefully to 1925.

"FLORIDA: Citrus market unsatisfactory, but new construction and general growth very great. From an economic standpoint Florida may be called the newest state in the Union and hence has many problems to solve, including the preservation and canning of citrus fruits and juices; but the state is now attracting the attention of capitalists from all over the country. These men are bringing so much new money into the state that local conditions are of secondary importance.

"ALABAMA: All tendencies favorable, with better feeling in the iron and steel industries, coal mine and lumber. Alabama is the Pennsylvania of the South, while Birmingham may sometimes out rank Pittsburgh in population and wealth. With its great undeveloped resources of all kinds—including a water power which rivals Niagara—this state has great industrial possibilities. Although 1924 has been quiet in Alabama, as in many other localities, the state is sure to benefit greatly from all improvements and such prosperity as its neighboring states enjoy.

"MISSISSIPPI: General industrial conditions improving. This state has had a fair year and is very hopeful as to 1925. Its diversified industries—cotton, lumber, turpentine, textiles, etc.—tend to stabilize conditions. Moreover, Mississippi's cotton crop was 30 per cent in value above the previous year which makes everyone hopeful.

"TENNESSEE: Outlook somewhat better, though not up to normal. The same general comment applies to Tennessee. The lumber people are looking to a good year in 1925; the coal mining people are confident of an improvement over 1924; while highway work and general building is very active.

"ARKANSAS: Improvement continuing, and temporary hesitation overcome. The value of the Arkansas cotton crop for 1925 exceeded the previous year by 25 per cent; but Arkansas is now very dependent upon general business conditions throughout the country as a whole. Hence there has been considerable unemployment among the steel plants, paper mills, and especially in the stone, glass and clay industries.

"LOUISIANA: Upward trend has been slow, while oil market was depressed; but higher oil prices should show marked improvement. Louisiana suffered during the past season with a severe drought resulting in considerable unemployment. This, added to the stagnant oil market of 1924, depressed conditions. The sugar and lumber people are, however, optimistic and with good oil prices Louisiana should do better this year.

"OKLAHOMA: Gradual improvement continues. Although the oil, stone, glass and clay products industries are quiet, this state compared with others—is quite prosperous today. Mining, gunning, and foundry work are going at full time, while the rail road shops are all busy. Highway construction and new building are also active.

"TEXAS: Trend distinctly better, although results are not yet evidenced. Although the Texas cotton crop was off the season compared with last year, lumber and oil industries are operating on full time schedule. Building is active with a good volume of new projects being started. Some excess of unskilled labor and slight surplus of building workers at some points, due chiefly to seasonal influx of labor.

"GENERAL CONCLUSIONS: Personally I am very optimistic on the entire South. I believe that the greatest percentage growth of the United States will be in the South during the ten years from 1920 to 1930. The railroad statistics, bank clearings and building permits all indicate this result. Hence I have been bullish on Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line and other southern investments. Florida has saved the Seaboard from a receivership and may put the fertilizer companies back on their feet. Yes, the South is doing more than its share in improving general business. The Babson chart now shows it as 5 per cent above normal."

XENIANS URGED TO OBSERVE "BETTER MAILING WEEK" NOW

The first week in June has been set aside by officials of the Xenia Post Office and designated as "Better Mailing Week", when an active nation-wide campaign will be waged to reduce, as far as possible, the steadily mounting business of the Dead Letter Office and turn to constructive channels the appalling waste occasioned by mis-directed mail.

Last year 21,618,168 undelivered letters representing an increase of 2,379,626 over the previous year and 893,545 parcel post packages an increase of 109,610, strayed from the rightful owners and were impounded in the Dead Letter Office. The principle point being stressed in the campaign is to induce the mailer to place the return address on each piece of mail, since it is the lack of return addresses that cause 99 per cent of every 100 letters to go to the Dead Letter Office, it is said.

BERGDOLL STATUS IS NOT AFFECTED

Washington, June 3.—The government's effort to get minor war time draft dodging cases off the federal court docket does not apply to Grover Cleveland Bergdall, now thought to be hiding in Germany. It was announced at the department of justice today.

The case pending against Bergdall will hold its present status, officials said, in the hope that he will be captured in an effort to return to the United States.

Dr. H. C. Messenger and Mrs. H. A. Hoffman, in charge, were assisted by Mrs. James D. Adair, Mrs. J. H. Whitmer and Mrs. J. O. McDorman. J. O. McDorman and Elwood Dunkel, members of the Kiwanis club, brought the babies to the clinic in their automobiles.

WILL SEND PLANES IN AMUNDSEN SEARCH

London, June 3.—Two naval air-planes will be sent by the Norwegian government Friday to search for the Amundsen polar expedition according to news agency dispatches today from Oslo, Norway.

The planes are scheduled to leave Horten, near Oslo Friday by boat for Nybergen, where they will hope off in the search for the missing polar flyers.

It was generally believed that Amundsen's party had already set out for Port Columbia, 250 miles south of Greenland, by foot. Authorities here believe his two planes were damaged in landing on rough ice.

RECEIPTS LESS

Receipts at the Greene County Auditor's office during May fell off slightly from the disbursement total during May according to the monthly financial statement completed by County Auditor R. O. Wead Tuesday.

Receipts during the month amounted to $20,616.14 as compared to disbursements of $26,868.42. The report shows a balance on hand of $109,140.98 May 31 as compared to a balance of $115,150.68 April 30.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LXIX.
There was no applying himself to the magazine. He couldn't get his mind on it, despite the fact that the article before him was alluringly illustrated. With a sigh Michael arose and made his way to Stateroom B, and tapped on the door. There was no response. He opened the door. Lilah was curled up on a seat, staring out into the fast developing darkness.

"Lilah, pet, what's the matter?"
She did not answer him. He sat down on the arm of the seat and sought to take her in his arms. She avoided him.

"What's the matter, honey? Please tell me. Are you?"
"I'm all right. You entertain yourself; and I'd like to entertain myself—alone."

He got up and gazed down at her. "Lilah, this is ridiculous! Surely you're not jealous. I was standing on the platform when she came out and began to talk. I just mumbled a few conventional answers, that's all."

"You seemed to be enjoying the—accident."

"Oh, gee Lilah! Don't be foolish! Aw—"

He left the stateroom. Again he sought to see himself in an interesting magazine. And this time he succeeded in forgetting Lilah's peevishness. Half an hour later she came in to the observation car and sat down by his side. Although there were other persons about, she took his hand and patted it.

"Forgive me," she said softly. "It's the headache I have."

"Shall we go out on the platform?" He took her arm and led the way. The air, gushing down upon them from a range of mountains far in the distance, was bracing.

"I'm a little cool, dear. I'm going to get something to put around my shoulders."

"Let me do it," he moved toward the door.

"No, I'll go. You stay and console the lonely sweet young things." With a faint smile she went back into the car. Michael was annoyed by all this. He was not conscious of having done anything wrong in being indifferently courteous to the young woman who had spoken to him. He knew that passengers on these trains, thrown together for three or four days, spoke without being introduced. Lilah was curled up on a seat, staring out into the fast developing darkness.

He sat down in a chair and lighted a cigarette. Far off, on a mountain side, he could see a light. He pictured a lonely mountain cabin. Perhaps it belonged to a hermit—a happy hermit with not a care in the world. "I'd like to live out here," he told himself. But a moment later he was thinking that he wouldn't like to live out here. "It's too darned lonely. I guess it would be pleasant to bury oneself out here about three months of the year." He was musing in this vein when he heard the door snap behind him, and jumped up, supposing it was Lilah. The eyes he looked into were those of "the sweet young thing."

"Doesn't look as if the moon is coming out tonight, does it?" She walked to the edge of the platform and his eyes followed her.

"No, it doesn't." He kept his eyes straight in front of him, upon the glistening hands of steel stretched interminably into the distance.

"It's a wonderful night, isn't it?"

He wanted to say, "Yes, you remarked so before." Instead he seated himself and responded in a more conventional vein.

"Yes, it is. Nights are lovely in the desert." He hoped she would go away before Lilah returned.

"Are you going into the movies, too?"

"Oh, no—no," he laughed. Something caused him to glance at the door. Lilah was standing there again.

PREPAREDNESS FAVORED BY PRESIDENT RUSSELL UNDER FIRE IN LIQUOR PERMIT TRIAL

WITNESS SAYS LATE
JESS SMITH GIVEN
$25,000 AS FIXER

Drug Company Head Says
Copeland Told Him
To Flee

Cleveland, June 3.—The government, after linking all three defendants in the Hayner conspiracy by the testimony of six witnesses, yesterday, will probably complete its case late today.

Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general stated that unless delayed by prolonged cross examination the prosecution would rest.

Yesterday Joshua E. Russell, suspended federal prohibition director and M. B. Copeland, his chief clerk, defendants were the objects of the government's assault.

Taking the witness stand, H. M. Paul, assistant prohibition director, Armand A. Gardos, head of the Armand Drug and Candy Company, who fled the country, when trouble threatened the Hayner plot, Agnes Specht, stenographer, in the prohibition office at Columbus and John G. Harper, prohibition inspector, all dealt severe blows to Russell and Copeland.

Assistant Director Paul declared he had shown Russell permits for the Armand Drug and Candy Company for $2500 gallons on two occasions.

"He made no comment, however," Paul stated.

Armand Gardos told of a hurried trip to Columbus to consult with Copeland.

"The government agents from Washington were getting hot on my trail. Grossberg advised me to leave the country. I drove to Columbus and called Copeland from the Seneca Hotel. Going to his home, I told him that things were getting hot. He said: 'There will be charges brought against you so you had better flee. The trouble is from Washington and it is over our heads,' Gardos declared Copeland said.

Gardos also told of the time Copeland came to Cleveland and demanded to see his record. He said that Copeland took away his permits and he immediately got in touch with Harry Grossberg, whom he said told him not to worry and he stated it was Copeland. Two hours later he got the permits back. When he obtained the permits from Copeland, former Senator Frank Norwood at the time a division prohibition chief, was present. Describing the scene, Gardos said:

"Mr. Copeland said 'meet Senator Norwood.' I shook hands with the senator, who immediately turned his back and Copeland gave me back the permits."

Agnes Specht, Columbus, who had charge of writing up permits during Russell's administration, could not remember various details concerning the reports she had written up, until her memory was refreshed by the vigorous questioning of Mrs. Willebrandt. She finally identified Copeland's initials and "ok" on one of the reports.

The outstanding sensation of the day came when Abe Ungerleider, Columbus broker, declared that he and Grossberg had given $25,000 to Warren Barrett for Jess Smith, who committed suicide later in Washington.

Smith was a close friend of Harry Daugherty, former attorney general. The money Ungerleider said, was to "fix things at Washington."

CONDITION SERIOUS

SITUATION TENSE

London, June 3.—The political situation in Italy is becoming tense, according to private advices received here today.

Fascist extremists took the body of the slain deputy, Matteotti, from a tomb in the Fratte Polesine cemetery near Venice and threw it into the canal, the advices said.

Rain May Bring Relief

Partly Cloudy Wednesday, with probable thundershowers Wednesday afternoon or night and on Thursday; continued warm.

COOLING SHOWERS MAY BRING RELIEF TO HEAT SUFFERERS

Wind and Rainstorms
Claim Two Deaths In Minnesota.

Cleveland, O., June 3.—Cooling showers may come this afternoon. U. S. Weatherman Emery predicted this morning to slightly ameliorate the sweltering heat under which Cleveland and other parts of the middle west have suffered since Monday. For three hours yesterday, the mercury registered 91 degrees and a temperature almost as high may be recorded again.

Five deaths and one protraction, due to the hot wave were reported in the state. Three persons, Russell Ward, 12, of Lorain; Carl A. Duncan, 15, and an unidentified man, both of Toledo, were drowned. Mrs. Alice Wise, 67, of Dayton, fainted while ironing and died soon afterwards, and Mrs. Magdalena Helget, 84, of Sandusky, succumbed to the intense heat.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 3.—With 2,344,241 injured and great property damage, as the result of last night's terrific wind and rainstorm, that struck the twin cities and surrounding territory, the toll of dead and injured is expected to mount when communication with the storm swept area is restored.

MORE THAN 1,000 ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND BANKERS' MEETING

Columbus, O., June 3.—More than 1,000 are expected to attend the 35th annual convention of the Ohio Bankers Association, which will be convened here this afternoon, for a three day meeting. B. G. Huntington, Columbus is president; S. A. Roach, Columbus, secretary and W. R. Myers, Canton, treasurer.

Following the report of the president at the opening session this afternoon speakers will include Dr. William C. Thompson, president of Ohio State University and Luther K. Ball, traffic manager of the United States air mail service, who will explain how banking business may be speeded up by use of the air mails.

Among the speakers scheduled at Thursday's meetings are John H. McCoy, Marietta, Gray Silver, president of the Grain Marketing Company, Chicago; Manley C. Hudson, Bemis Professor of international law at Harvard; W. C. Metz, Newark, and C. F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research corporation Dayton.

HOLD WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY IS NOT SUBJECT TO DAMAGES

Holding that Wilberforce University is not subject to damage suit since it is state property, the State Supreme Court Tuesday reversed a judgment for $5,000 obtained in the lower courts against the institution for injuries received from a fall on the university property.

Grace Green, a student at the University, brought suit in Common Pleas Court for $20,000 damages for personal injuries resulting from alleged negligence in leaving a man hole open on the grounds controlled jointly by Wilberforce University proper and the board of trustees of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department of the University.

She obtained a verdict for $5,000 in Common Pleas Court and this judgment was affirmed by the Court of Appeals when the defendant appealed the case on error.

The Court of Appeals held that the board of trustees of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department was not a branch of the state but constituted a separate organization from the state and capable of being sued. The university proper and the normal and industrial departments were held jointly responsible.

Attorney C. L. Darlington, Xenia, represented Grace Green in the case. Attorney C. H. Kyle, Xenia, represented the university proper and Attorney Arthur H. Wicks, Columbus, acting as special counsel for Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, represented the combined normal and industrial department.

ONE MAN PARADE HALTS STREET TRAFFIC

Spokane, Wash., June 3.—A one man parade, with reviewing stands and all the fixins, drew crowds to Riverside Avenue, Spokane's main thoroughfare, when Thomas O'Brien, veteran Indian fighter of the Northwest, pranced splendidly up the street while the sidewalk crowds roared and cheered. It was the most unique spectacle Spokane has seen.

The parade formed at the usual assembling point for large circus and patriotic bodies. It was mounted. It was colorful, in fact, typically Western. It rode its horse splendidly and its head was high. It carried a permit from the City Council to hold up street cars and traffic as it went.

O'Brien chased Indians all over the eastern Washington and northern Idaho hills in the pioneer days. This week he asked permission to stage his own parade. Indians on the Colville reservation north of Spokane, protested. Now they promise a counter spectacle, featuring red skins who have pale face scalps to their credit.

STRIKE SITUATION IN SHANGHAI WORSE DISPATCHES STATE

Communist Agents Blamed
—Rioters Fire On American Troopers.

London, June 3.—The situation in Shanghai, where Chinese have gone on a general strike, was described as "worse" in dispatches from Shanghai today to the Evening Sun.

Communist agents were blamed for the strike of 3,000 Chinese. Public service was reported to be greatly interrupted with a shortage of meat and other food impending. Sniping was continuing and 2,000 troops were reported enroute to quell the strikers.

Rioting strikers yesterday opened fire on American troops marching in Burkill road, killing two horses and wounding an American doctor, Thomas G. McMartin. The rioters were dispersed with machine gun fire. Hundreds of rioters, prepared to attack from positions on roof tops, were arrested.

Pekin, China, June 3.—Students generally were going on strike here early today as a protest against the action of foreigners in suppressing disorder in Shanghai growing out of the strike there.

The "foreigners" are American, British and Italian bluejackets who have landed from war vessels of their respective countries to protect the lives and property of subjects of the three countries.

Shanghai, June 3.—Two hundred members of the American Woman's club, headed by Irene Corbally Kuhn, former New York newspaperwoman and Viola Smith, formerly of San Francisco, and now assistant to the U. S. trade commissioner today organized a woman's auxiliary and defense battalion to take an active part in the military movement to quell the rebellion of Chinese laborers and students.

SCOUT MEET OFF

In view of the Boy Scout track and field meet to be held near the Adair Cottage on the Little Miami River Wednesday afternoon, there will be no regular meeting of Troop No. 1 Wednesday night. Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury announced.

All Scouts are invited to the track meet Wednesday afternoon which begins at 2 o'clock and parents will also be welcomed. A picnic supper will feature the outing Wednesday evening.

TOO HOT TO ARGUE!—THAT WAS XENIA CITIZENS TUESDAY

A resolution passed by Xenia Local Streetcleaners Union, was aimed at a man caught frying eggs on the pavement of East Main Street, in front of the Court House, Tuesday shortly after noon.

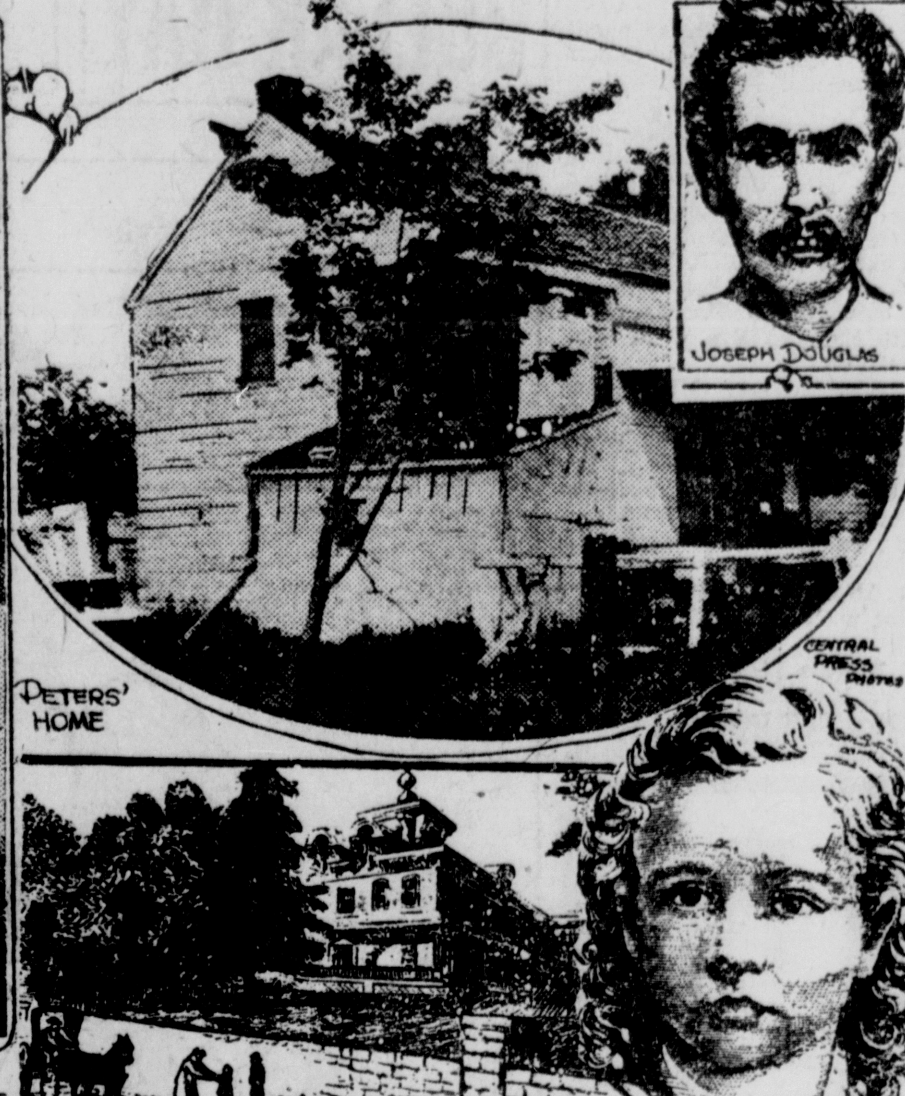

The resolution said the egg-frying process would leave a grease stain which would spread like a new scandal at a sewing party. As a result of the resolution officials issued a mandate with a red seal. They said they had no objections to pedestrians boiling eggs in the water of the public fountain. If the water gets that hot. Personally, they said they didn't think it did.

The citizen who supervised the frying of the egg said there were enough hard-boiled eggs here now without boiling more.

"I'm Long Missing Charley Ross," Farmer Avers

DANIEL PETERS

PETERS' HOME

JOSEPH DOUGLAS

SCENE OF KIDNAPING

Has Charley Ross been found at last? Daniel Peters, York county, Pa., farmer, believes he is the missing Charley, who was kidnaped from his home in Philadelphia in 1874, and is investigating the mystery of his parentage. One Joseph Douglas confessed he was the kidnaper, but died before revealing the boy's whereabouts. Peters tells a strange story involving a gypsy camp, a death-bed plea of a mother he once supposed was his mother, and of mysterious doings of the man he was led to believe was his father.

KING OF DOCUMENT FAKERS ARRESTED IN BERLIN; CAUSED PLOTS ALL OVER EUROPE

Berlin, June 3.—The "king of the document fakirs" is under arrest, Berlin police announced today.

In the capture of the Russian, Drushelovsky, the German operatives believe they have run down the forger who for months has been weaving a net of plots all over Europe, making a livelihood by fostering race hatreds and animosities, and who has been successful, they believe, in the overthrow of a cabinet by his machinations.

It is possible the mysterious trail on the Zinoviev letter, published during the campaign which saw the defeat of Ramsay MacDonald cabinet in England, may be cleared up by investigation of Drushelovsky's operations.

This letter purported to be a communication from the soviet foreign minister to MacDonald then British premier, suggesting MacDonald could aid in spreading communistic propaganda in Great Britain. Official Moscow branded the letter a forgery. MacDonald made it the subject of a sharp note to Russia.

Not a world power but what has been touched by the machinations of the super-faker, the police asserted.

The spurious documents brought to light with Drushelovsky's arrest include:

- An alleged order from the soviet foreign ministry to secret communist spies in America announcing a remittance of $20,000 for the poisoning of Attorney General Warren;
- An order for agents to stake steps toward the removal of strained relations between Senator Borah and President Coolidge;
- Documents purporting to show the soviet plotted the Sveik Kral cathedral catastrophe, in Sofia, where 160 lives were lost.

OSLO, NOW IN LIMELIGHT, WAS FORMERLY CHRISTIANIA; RE BUILT ON RUINS OF FIRE

New York, June 3.—Oslo, whose dateline now figures so often in the news of Amundsen, the Norwegian polar explorer, is the rechristened capital of Norway. It was founded in 1047 and has a population of 242,000.

Since January 1, by royal decree, it has been known as Oslo, the old name of the city and a name older than the town. Before King Harald Hadrade built the famous St. Mary's Church, in the eleventh century, the site has been used since time immemorial as a fair grounds.

Oslo was known as Oslo until 1624 when a great fire ruined the greater part of the city. Whereupon King Christian IV. ordered the inhabitants to move a mile farther west under the guns of the Akershus fortress. There he planned the present town and named it after himself—Christiania.

The friction between Norway and Sweden over the dispute as to the ownership of Greenland overcame the inertia against changing the name of the town. The Lower House of the Storting, or Congress, last June passed a bill to change the name of the town. On July 4, 1924, the Upper House made the bill law. It came into effect January 1, the city council having requested that the change not be effective until after the centenary of Christiania last September.

The city is now nearly all modern, but built on the original designs of King Christian. The chief industries are iron foundries, weaving, spinning and paper mills. Huge quantities of matches are also made there. The shipping trade is extensive.

MISS DONAHEY WILL BE WED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AT 4 P. M.

Ceremony To Be Performed By
Bridegroom's Brother With
Brothers Attending

Columbus, O., June 3.—Miss Margaret Donahey, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Donahey, will be married here at 4 o'clock this afternoon to James Wylie Huffman, of Chancellersville, executive secretary of the governor, at the first wedding ceremony to be performed at the executive mansion.

A public reception will be held following the ceremony.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Frank H. Huffman, Baltimore, Md., a brother of Mr. Huffman.

Miss Donahey will be given away by her father.

Mr. Huffman will be attended by Dr. Iolas M. Huffman, of Springfield as best man and Robert F. Donahey, brother of the bride, as groom's man.

Miss Donahey will wear a wedding robe of heavy ivory satin, trimmed with bands of lace outlined with pearls. She will also wear a veil of real lace and an orange blossom coronet which was worn by her mother at her wedding and by Mrs. J. H. Donahey of Cleveland, when she married.

FIRST ELECTION LAW REPORT ON JULY 14

Columbus, O., June 3.—First reports on the study of Ohio election laws will be made at a meeting here July 14, of the special legislative elections committee. It was announced today. Five subcommittees will spend the interim in drafting proposed revision of the laws.

One proposal is expected to include substitution of the convention system of the primary system in selection of party candidates for elective offices.

RECEIVERSHIP OF COMPANY ENDED

Columbus, O., June 3.—Receivership of the Phoenix Portland Cement Company, subsidiary of the ill-fated R. L. Dilling Company, has been terminated and management of the company restored to its officers, it was announced here today.

Stabilized income is now expected through royalties on cement manufactured at its Birmingham, Ala., plant.

There was lots of weather in Xenia Tuesday; but it was all hot. The bureau promises little relief unless thunderstorms sweeping western states arrive here on schedule. If they are lost in Indiana and never reach the United States, Xenia will continue to swelter.

COOLIDGE PLEDGES SUPPORT TO DEFENSE IN ANNAPOLIS TALK

Tells Naval Graduates Defense Is National Duty Of Citizen

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—President Coolidge, speaking as commander in chief of the American military establishment today pledged himself finally and absolutely to adequate national preparedness.

Addressing the 1925 graduating class of the U. S. naval academy here the executive gave his unqualified support to an army, a navy and a reserve qualified in every way to guarantee national security. He urged only that maintenance of the national defense be governed in such fashion as to make it "an instrument of righteousness" rather than a display of "mere naked force."

"The true spirit of American institutions requires that each citizen should be potentially a soldier ready to take his place in the ranks in time of peril, either in the field or in the necessary productive activity," he told the young naval officers.

The president admonished all men of the service, however, against preaching the gospel of preparedness on the plea that other world powers are arming against the United States.

Declaring that the suggestion that any other people are harboring a hostile intent toward us, is a "very serious charge," he said, "it seems to me perfectly proper for anyone upon any suitable occasion to advocate the maintenance of a navy in keeping with the greatness and dignity of our country. But as one who is responsible not only for our national defense, but likewise for our friendly relations with other peoples and our little too good opinion of the world, I feel that the occasion will very seldom arise and I know it does not now exist, when those connected with our navy are justified, either directly or by inference in asserting that other specified powers are arming against us and by arousing national suspicion and hatred, attempting to cause us to arm against them."

The duty of national defense, Mr. Coolidge said, is analogous to the general duty of citizenship and "should be broadly extended and borne by all the people." He declared that a proper display of military force was "the background of security."

NAVAL MANEUVERS DESCRIBED BY RICE AT KIWANIS MEETING

The first of the summer monthly meetings was held by the Xenia Kiwanis Club, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday evening.

H. E. Rice, Xenia newspaperman, who accompanied the United States naval fleet to Hawaii for army and navy maneuvers, gave a vivid account of his trip, as the chief speaker of the evening. He told of the trip to Honolulu and the rough sea weather encountered.

Eight hundred officers held a secret meeting after the fleet arrived at the port and the 400 conflicting points of the maneuvers were decided but the truth as to who won the mimic war will never be known he said. He discussed the merits of the airplane and the battleship and said that the battleship has no defense against an airplane or submarine. Both the planes and battleships have merits and demerits he said, but he favored the former for warcraft.

Mr. Rice described the elaborate feasts given the newspapermen and officers during their stay. Honolulu was one large park, he said, the tropical vegetation growing profusely over the city.

J. Kenneth Williamson, past president of the club, who is leaving soon to establish his home in West Palm Beach, Fla., was called on for a short talk, in which he expressed his pleasure in being a Kiwanian and his appreciation of the fellowship with the local members. The response on behalf of the club members was given by the Rev. W. H. Tilford who expressed the regret of the club in losing Mr. Williamson.

It was announced that the next meeting of the club would be held at Antioch Glen, Yellow Springs, the first Tuesday in July.

HALF-HOLIDAY EDITION

Because of the annual observance of the Wednesday half-holiday program, the Wednesday issue of the Evening Gazette is published at noon.

This plan will prevail throughout June, July and August, along with the half-holiday program adopted by many Xenia merchants and in effect this week for the first time.

There will be no change in the time of publication of The Morning Republican.

XENIA GOLFERS TO MEET DAYTON CLUB OVER DAYTON LINKS

Four representatives of the Xenia Country Club were scheduled to play the third match for Xenia in the Dayton District Golf Association League with the Community Golf Club of Dayton over the foreign links Wednesday afternoon. The match was to begin at 1 o'clock.

Chalmers Murphy, chairman of the tournament committee, was undecided Wednesday morning what players would represent Xenia in the match. Xenia was defeated 4 to 6 in the opening match with the MacGregor Club of Dayton but recovered itself in the match with the Dayton Miami Valley Club last week and walked off the links with a 3 to 1 victory.

The Community Club eighteen hole course is considered one of the most picturesque but at the same time hazardous in this section of Ohio and tests the ability of a golfer.

The holes are beautifully placed but are extremely long and the short distance shot is somewhat handicapped. Hazards are natural and it will be remembered that the National Public Links championship was determined over the Community course two years ago.

The address given by Judge Clevenger, Decoration Day was much appreciated by those who attended the services.

Mrs. Warner Morris continues ill at her home with neuritis.

The New Burlington Band played at Port William Memorial services Saturday morning and at the services here in the afternoon.

Charles McKay who has been ill for several months is very low, his death being expected almost any time.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Fletcher were held at the M. E.

Church, Friday afternoon. Burial was made in the Cemetery here.

BARNYARD HEN ACTS AS KITTENS' MOTHER

Bucyrus, Ohio, June 3—A litter of kittens was carried—one kitten at a time—by a mother cat to the nest of a setting hen at the barn of W. P. Baker's property, in the Normal Hill neighborhood. Baker asserts the hen immediately spread its wings over the kittens.

June, and the Telephone

ROMANTIC June, with its weddings and graduations, brings many urgings to the American heart to be off to some distant place.

Why not go, when the campus calls to the colors, when sons and daughters want your presence at commencements, when you feel the stir to be somewhere else, as audience or actor?

With long distance to serve, you can be wherever you want to be. There are 16,000,000 telephones in the nation-wide communications service built for your use. One of them is always near to send back decisions and desires to home or office, or carry words of love or greeting to places that call your thoughts.

The romance of life is in the air, and the great romance of modern days—universal telephone service—is yours to further it.

The public is always welcome to visit any Bell exchange, to see how the calls are handled, and have all the operating details explained by employees.

FIRST OF SUMMER MISSION MEETS HELD

The first of the summer country meetings of the Women's Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl McClellan on the Upper Bellbrook Pike.

The parlors and porches were made lovely with Chinese lanterns and profusion of flowers. After the praise service, led by Mrs. Jeanette Anderson, Miss Jennie Moffett told interestingly of her work with the Social Service League.

Mrs. Ed Moust had arranged a program on China. She was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Hutchison in presenting two chapters of "Ming Kwong," a text book on Chinese missionary work.

Mrs. Frank Dodds, who spent several years as a medical missionary in China, gave an interesting and instructive account of the work of the Chinese Buddhists in the address on "The Holy Mountain of T'ai-shan." Her talk was illustrated by a Chinese map, pictures, and native costumes.

Little Betty Jean McClellan closed the program with a vocal solo. After the business session, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served, the cakes being decorated with Chinese characters.

Mrs. McClellan was assisted by Mrs. D. M. Kyle, Mrs. A. D. Carver, and Mrs. Frank Hastings. Fifty-nine women enjoyed the afternoon.

MISSIONARY MEETING HELD TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Second Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, met at the home of Mrs. John Barnett of South-Detroit Street, Tuesday afternoon, for the regular meeting and election of officers.

After the regular business had been transacted, the election of officers was held with the following results: president, Mrs. J. Thorb Charters; first vice president, Mrs. J. H. Whitmer; second vice president, Mrs. L. A. Parrett; recording secretary, Miss Lorena Paulin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Keyser; treasurer, Mrs. Lena Chambliss; literature secretary, Mrs. Harry Sohn; mite box secretary, Miss Amy St. John; evangelism, Mrs. C. L. Seppner; titling, Miss Cora Williams; temperance, Mrs. W. O. Cusick; education, Mrs. A. E. Faulkner; requests, Mrs. M. J. Bebb, supplies, Miss Bertha Hook, and thank offering, Mrs. Charles Riddell.

A delicious refreshment course was served by the hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. John Barnett, Mrs. Oren Ledbetter, Mrs. Harvey Coates, Mrs. Hannah Turner, Mrs. W. O. Cusick, Miss Edith Miller, Miss Straley and Mrs. Otto Hornick.

Plans were made for the annual picnic of the society to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Sohn, on Home Avenue, in July. The exact date for the picnic will be announced later.

MISS RINCK TO BE FETED AT PARTIES

A series of parties has been planned, honoring Miss Florence Rinck, West Market Street, whose marriage to Mr. James Paulin will take place Wednesday, June 10, at the Rinck home.

The first of the series will be given by Mrs. H. L. Sayre at her home on North King Street, Wednesday afternoon. Guests for four tables of bridge have been invited.

Mrs. C. J. Kunka and Mrs. Alvin Belt of Dayton, are entertaining Wednesday evening at bridge, in Miss Rinck's honor. Miss Lorena Paulin will entertain guests for three tables of bridge, Saturday afternoon. Other affairs are also being planned.

OBEDIENT COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

The following officers of Obedient Council, No. 150 Daughters of America, were elected at the regular lodge meeting, Tuesday evening:

Councillor, Mrs. Nellie Armstrong; associate councillor, Miss Jeanette Mobley; vice councillor, Mrs. Ada Sanders; associate vice councillor, Mrs. Lois Mason; recording secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Wood; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Elsie Jones; treasurer, Miss Ethel Bird; trustee, Mrs. Blanche Paul; conductor, Mrs. Ada Swadener; warden, Mrs. Emma Gattrell; inside sentinel, Mrs. Ava Moore; outside sentinel, Mrs. Anna Lemons; team captain, Mrs. M. E. Coulter and pianist, Mrs. Elizabeth McElfresh.

GUESTS ENTERTAINED AT GARDEN PARTY

Mrs. Emory Beal graciously received a small company of friends at her home on the Union Road, Tuesday afternoon. The delightful early summer weather added to the charm of the informal occasion. Luncheon was served at quarter tables on the lawn in the flower garden.

Mrs. Ira Stowe, Dayton, and Mrs. Wright Maddox, of Frankfort, were the only out-of-town guests.

SPRINGFIELD PARTY

Miss Cleo Rockfield, whose marriage to Mr. Wilbur Dorst, of Springfield, will take place Saturday, was complimented by Miss Ada Vance of Springfield, who entertained with six tables of bridge Tuesday evening at her home. The affair was also a kitchen "show" for the bride-elect.

REV. AND MRS. LYTLE RECEIVE PARISHIONERS

Everything contributed to make the reception of the Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Lytle, for members of the First United Presbyterian Church congregation, at their new home on East Church Street, Tuesday afternoon, a joyful occasion.

There were no formalities, wives of the trustees and building committee assisting in welcoming the guests. Groups were received from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and during the evening. A profusion of roses and other flowers that shed beauty and fragrance throughout the rooms, added to the charm of the afternoon.

Young women served delicious refreshments and the men, who had been specially interested in the construction of the manse, busied themselves showing the many advantages of the pastor's home. The beauty of the whole occasion was the harmony which exists between pastor and people and the affair was one of the most enjoyable held in the congregation.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church will be entertained Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. S. K. Collins and Mrs. I. S. Dines, on West Third Street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Wead North Detroit Street, attended a surprise party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weiss, in Yellow Springs, Monday evening.

Mrs. Blanche Johnson of Terre Haute, Ind., is spending several days in Xenia, with friends.

Mrs. Hattie Wilburg of Chicago, Ill., has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamme of Bellbrook.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Latham of Bellbrook, where the Rev. Mr. Latham has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church, are leaving next Tuesday for New York and will sail on the Majestic June 13 for England, for an extended stay.

Mrs. J. W. Allen of Dayton and her son, Dr. R. A. Allen of Chicago, were visitors Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler, West Market Street.

An open meeting of the missionary society of the Old Town Church will be held Friday evening, June 5, at 8 o'clock.

The Xenia W. C. T. U., will meet at the home of Mrs. M. E. Dixon, 718 South Detroit Street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A semi-annual Sunday School convention will be held at Lumberton Church, next Sunday, June 7, at 2 o'clock. An address will be given by the Rev. H. L. Leasure, of Sabina, on the subject, "Investments."

Mrs. Curtis Clemmer (Miss Thelma Houk) is taking treatment for her eyes at Dr. Vale's Hospital in Cincinnati. She is improving and expects to return home in a week.

The Berean Bible Class of the Reformed Church will hold its regular monthly social meeting Thursday evening, June 4, at the home of Mrs. R. C. Ferris, North Detroit Street. Every member is urged to be present.

Mrs. S. H. Stagers of Caracas, Venezuela, South America, is visiting her parents, Professor and Mrs. D. H. Barnes, of High Street. Mrs. Stagers came by the way of Porto Rico and stopped in San Juan for a week's visit. She will remain here five months and Mr. Stagers will join her in the fall for a two months vacation, before returning home.

Mrs. C. O. Arbogust of Chicago after spending several days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Maddux, of near Xenia, is now visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Arbogust of North King Street. Mr. Arbogust will join his wife Friday for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kaiser, North Detroit Street, left the first of the week for Martinsville, Ind., where Mr. Kaiser will take medical treatment. Charles Kaiser and George McKay accompanied them by motor returning immediately to Xenia.

Mrs. R. C. Britton and two sons, Howard and Robert North, of Richmond, Ind., have returned home after spending several days in this city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. North. They were in attendance at the commencement exercises of the Central High School where John North, Jr., was one of the graduates.

Miss Mabel Foster and Miss Geneva Smith, teachers at McKinley School, are leaving Thursday for their home in Peebles, O. Miss Smith will return next term but Miss Foster has resigned and her marriage to Mr. Palmer of Peebles will take place this month.

THEY WON PREMIER ROLL HONORS

Miss Louise Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wood, West Main Street and William Horner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Horner, West Second Street, were chosen by their classmates of the graduating class of Central High School, to receive the Premier Rose. The custom of bestowing the rose on two members of the senior class was inaugurated four years ago, and denotes the appreciation of the class to the two students giving the best service to their class and school.

COLLEGE STUDENTS PRESENT PAGEANT ON ANNUAL PROGRAM

"Springtime," a pageant in four episodes, was scheduled as the feature of the Cedar Day program at Cedarville College, Wednesday afternoon. The pageant will be presented on the campus at 4 o'clock, central standard time and a large number of the students will take part.

The opening of the pageant, or the first episode is entitled "The Capture of Proserpina," with the entrance of Ceres, goddess of the seasons, with her daughter, Proserpina, and eight Grecian maidens. The Grecian maidens welcome Ceres with a dance. Cupid appears and shoots a dart at Pluto and another at Proserpina. Pluto, god of the underworld, seizes Proserpina and carries her away to become queen of the underworld. The Grecian maidens give a dance of pity and consolation for Ceres.

The second episode is entitled "A Message from Jupiter," water nymphs, entering, bearing Proserpina's green girdle. Ceres believes her daughter has been swallowed by the earth and pronounces a curse of winter on the earth. Winter, North Wind and Snowballs enter and give a dance.

"Proserpina Crowned Queen" is the title of the third episode. A messenger from the gods enters and tells Ceres that her daughter may return for six months of the year. Ceres then alters her curse, making winter six months and summer six months. The May procession enters, bringing Proserpina, whom Ceres crowns Queen of the May, of Goddess of Spring.

The fourth and final episode is the May Day Dances, including the flower dance, May Pole Dance and Recessional, the conclusion.

The characters are: Ceres, goddess of season, Alberta Owens; Proserpina, May Queen, Lois Cummings; water nymph, Ruth Barnes; Winter,

Mary Webster, messenger, Lois Estle; herald, Esta Hamer; pages, Kathleen, Kyle, and Ada McKay; Pluto, Wilma Baldorf; flower girls, Freda Crowell, Elizabeth Lackey, Isabelle Clark and Glennis Lambert. Two solo dances, one by the "North Wind," Elizabeth Gifford and the other by Ann Ord, are features of the program.

Students who take part in the various dances are: Flower Dance, Hazel Barber, Mary Townsley, Martha Beam, Betty Rosetta McMillan, Lella Lamar, Lillian Gilbert, Oils Har, Alice Wolf and Helen Wike; Snowball Dance, Una Harbison, Mabel Harner, Eva Crumley, Margaret Michener, Lorena Sharp, Lucille Anderson, Ruth Burdick; Maypole Dance, Evelyn Anders, Erma Kinison, Mildred Aldrich, Wilda Bickett, Dorothy Wilson, Lois Manor, Lois McFarland, Harriett Kyle, Sybil Robison, Ruth Dobbins, Verna Boase, Ethel Long and Dorothy Pyles. The Grecian maidens are: Grace Constance, Helen Hille, Eleanor Johnson, Elizabeth Cresswell, Harriett Shields, Mary Wright, Nellie Boase, Ruth McPherson.

The beauty of the pageant will lie in the costumes representing the different characters and the setting of woodland beauty of the campus. The annual faculty and senior reception for students and alumni of the college was held in the Reformed Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening. The church parlors were elaborately decorated and orchestra music was furnished during the reception. Refreshments were served.

COURT NEWS

JUDGMENT AFFIRMED

A sentence on a conviction in Probate Court of a charge of operating a car while intoxicated against Harley Ireland, has been affirmed in Common Pleas Court. The defendant excepted to the judgment.

A stay of execution of the sentence was given by Judge R. L. Gowdy, on bond and the judgment suspended to allow Ireland time to file a petition in error in the Court of Appeals. Ireland was found guilty of the charge in Probate Court and fined.

Shanty Says

I'm a Press Agent!

Well folks, I've got some job! I went over to Mr. Sayre and after telling him that I wanted a press agent job with no work except telling the world what a fine man he was and what a fine store he had and that I didn't know anything about drugs he faints and after being brought to, he up and hired me while he was still a little weak. I'm to write a piece for the paper about him each week in return for which he gives me the run of the store, all the chewing tobacco I need, two tubes of shaving cream, and half a pint of Sloan's Liniment each week.

I didn't do so well with Bill McCallister the Hardware person. I think now after figgerin' it all out that he don't care for me so much. He liked the idea of having a press agent but when it came to wages he insisted on paying me in washing machines and spades. I asked him what I could do with such things and all he replied with was a dirty—a very dirty—look. He later mentioned that I could use the spade to dig myself up with and now that I've thought it over, I believe he was insinuating that I was dead but didn't know about it. However it's a job.

STILL AGIN' WORK!! The battery man, and tire man, Mr. Kohl and I got mighty chummy and friendly. He asked me what experience I'd had in press agenting and if I was good at it and if I was a hard worker.

I told him I'd never worked at it before and that I sure was fine at it and that I didn't care to discuss work at all. After I explained how it was a job with wages I wanted—and not any work—he seemed to choke on something and after a couple of helpers around the place had straightened him out he came up smiling and shook hands, explaining that he'd read of folks like me but never had the pleasure, etc., of meeting one. It may be that there was a hidden meaning in what he said, but if there was, it's still hidden for I haven't figured it out yet. It's a job however.

I suppose I SHOULD start out right today press agenting these gentlemen but the fact is I don't know a blamed thing to say about any of them. You see a press agent is supposed to say NICE things about their bosses but it takes time to think up such truck and I'm so tired looking for a job that now that I've got three, I think I'll rest a spell and get my strength back.

As a first class PRESS AGENT spell in capital letters, I DO believe it's necessary to get the bosses name in print ever so often so in order for them to see that I'm holding down the job properly I'm going to print their names in big type just below.

In order for none of them to get jealous of the others, I'm going to let them take turns being first and this week Bill McCallister the hardware man leads off.

MR. BILL MCALLISTER, sells fine hardware.
MR. DOC SAYRE, sells fine drugs.
MR. JOHNNY KOHL, sells fine batteries.
P. S.—R. A. Higgins, the editor of this paper, called me a "wastrel" a week or so ago and I found out what he meant and told him today that he was a three letter word meaning editor and got him so worked up that I told him the answer which was "mut" and now I find that Sloan's Liniment comes in real handy, if you know what I mean.

FADS KEEP CHINA JUMPING

IT was only a couple of years ago that the maids of Cathay sheared their tresses and realized a little pin money in the form of brass "cash" by selling them to manufacturers of hair nets. Then the maids of America took up the bobbed hair fad, sheared their tresses and Chinese exports of hair nets to the United States fell from $4,000,000 in value in 1923 to $1,600,000 in 1924.

The Mah Jong craze struck this country along about 1923, and while several of our feminine society leaders were quarreling as to whom should go the credit for introducing the game into this country, China sold us $1,500,000 worth of sets. Last year Mah Jong began to pall and Chinese sales to us dropped to $800,000.

It is a hard job for staid old China to keep up with the fads and fancies of the youngster of the Occident.

MORE TAX CUT PLANS

RECOMMENDATIONS for a decrease in the public revenues by the reduction of some tax rates and the elimination of others, continue to pour in. A recent recommendation put forth by Representative Bacharach, of New Jersey would cut the nation's revenues $235,000,000 which is a sizeable sum.

Congressman Bacharach recommends the elimination of the taxes on automobiles and accessories, on motor boats, jewelry, club dues, and on amusement admissions of less than $1.50. He would reduce the inheritance or estate taxes to a maximum of twenty per cent, applied to estate only of $100,000 or over and would make a similar reduction of the gift tax. All of this would total a reduction of $135,000,000.

In addition the congressman believes that the maximum surtax ought to be twenty per cent, applied to incomes of $15,000 or over. Just how much this would reduce the revenue is a matter of dispute among the experts. Mr. Bacharach asserts also that constant tinkering with the revenue laws upsets business and he would frame a more permanent law, one which would last during the lifetime of the administration at least.

No seventh son of a seventh son can of course predict just what reductions will finally be effected in the next revenue law. The more suggestion, and the more discussion the better, however. It is good to know, at any rate that there will be another substantial cut in the taxes when Congress meets next winter.

WERE NOT SO YOUNG

DR. VALERIA PARKER, of Washington, speaking at the concluding meeting of the International Council of Women, declared that the United States as "a young member of the family of nations," displayed "all the impulsive and selfishness of youth." The lady betrayed before foreign delegates strange unfamiliarity with the comparative age of the United States. Our nation is not one of the younger, but one of the very oldest members of the family of nations. Our national flag is the oldest in Christendom. We are older than united Italy or united Germany. We are the oldest of the many nations of this hemisphere. The sixteen new European nations created as the result of the World war, the Portuguese, French and Russian republics are all infants in arms as compared with Uncle Sam. True the people of these nations have long lived under some government, but the American colonies had two hundred and fifty years of existence before the Revolutionary war, with a greater degree of self government than prevailed in most Europe during the same period. What European nation has more of the marks of maturity in its national thinking than has the United States—which are less impulsive or more unselfish?

SPEAKING OF THE BABY
Being her daddy it may be I'm prejudiced and favor
Beyond good judgment's boundaries that little tyke's behavior;
But knowing what her mother was when I became her suitor,
I hold of all the baby girls there never was one cuter.

Her mother must have made them laugh when she was small like Janet,
And in that time I fancy she both owned the house and ran it;
She surely had a thousand charms the old folks lives to sweeten,
But lovely though she must have been our baby has her beaten.

I am not fond of boastfulness, myself I seldom mention,

To what I've done or what I own I'd call no man's attention
But as her daddy I declare without one if or maybe
We have in her I love so much a most unusual baby.

The light of love is in her eye, there's music in her chatter
There's joy in everything she does, Strangers stand staring at her;
And though I'm prejudiced of course, on all this earthly planet
I claim of all the lovely babes, the loveliest is Janet.

We cannot keep her three years old—I say it oft in sorrow—
Age has a place for her to fill in some not far tomorrow,
And so for her I have one hope, dearer, than every other,
When she grows up I pray she'll be as lovely as her mother.

1905-Twenty Years Ago-1925

One of the most terrible storms of wind and rain that has visited this section for a number of months occurred Monday resulting in several hundred dollars damage.

Robert Allen, of the Pan-Handle supply house in this city, was a visitor in Columbus today.

Thieves broke into the carpenter shop of Frank McCurtain a few days ago and stole therefrom a couple of cans of paint belonging to Mr. McCurtain.

Members of the Odd Fellow lodges of Xenia, both Xenia and Tabor, turned out in large numbers Sunday afternoon in Memorial Day observance and staged a parade.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barley were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Barley.

Many former residents were back for Decoration Day and to care for their friends' graves in the cemetery.

Mrs. Anna Anderson is able to be about her home, again.

Mrs. Flora Mason visited a part of last week with her son Erwin and family, of Dayton.

Mrs. Roy Irons, of Clyde, Ohio, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Eva Wyssong.

Mrs. Russell Hiatt and children are spending this week in Wilmington attending the college commencement.

Mrs. Roscoe McCabe and little daughter, of Fort Wayne, Ind., are visiting her mother, Mrs. Belle Reed.

The time-worn question: "Is the baby a blue baby or a pink baby?" must now be discarded or rather changed. For yellow is today even more popular than pink and blue for infants.

Dame Fashion, ever casting about her for innovations, must have been particularly restless when she evolved this new vogue, upsetting an age-old custom. It did seem as if she might let babies alone!

Yet why should not yellow be considered an appropriate "baby color?" It is the color of sunshine—a befitting symbol of the brightness and joy which the little people bring into the world with them. Yellow is also daintiness. If you would test its suitability for this new use, just place your baby in a yellow basinet; he will resemble a little sunflower among the frills and laces.

So I heartily recommend pale yellow for the "new" baby. Here are some of the things I have recently seen in specialty shops and large department stores made in this color: Yellow-Lined Baby Basket. The basket itself was of willow, painted white. Its padded and quilted lining cover was made of pale yellow China silk. The white ivory hair brush had tiny yellow flowers painted on its back, and the ivory powder box and soap box were decorated to match.

Yellow Basinet: This was the customary swinging kind, of white-enamelled willow. Its edge was decorated with a ruffle of yellow silk covered with a shadow lace, both three inches wide. Its soft white eyelid-embroidered pillow case had a yellow silk lining. And the coverlet too was white over yellow.

Yellow Baby Floor Lamp: The up-to-date nursery has a small-sized floor lamp which stands near the basinet to cast a soft, shaded light on the sleeping infant when Mother wishes to see if all is well. The one I saw was of white wicker. Its wicker shade being lined with yellow silk and edged with a deep gold fringe.

Clothes: In addition to the usual pink or blue knitted or crocheted baby sacques, I saw many pale yellow ones. Yellow baby-ribbon was also used to decorate white garments.

Dr. W. M. Hartinger is in his office again after having had scarlet fever.

There are still several cases of smallpox here but hopes are felt that the worst is over. There have been nearly fifty cases in and near town. The Memorial Day exercises at the cemetery were carried out as usual and were very pretty.

Mrs. Florence Linder, of Dayton, spent Friday and Saturday with Mrs. Anna Jensen.

Mr. Martin Bagford, Mr. Clarence Bagford and Master Carl Bagford attended the funeral of Mr. John Bagford at Troy Monday morning.

Today's Talks

GRATITUDE

I have enough money to get along with—and so that doesn't bother me. I try to look toward the greater rewards of life—gratitude, for instance.

To feel the warmth of approval and appreciation come over you for something you have done, be it great or small, is to taste of the nectar of the gods.

We work for gratitude. We eat, breathe, hope and pour the sweat from our brow that we may feed later upon gratitude.

Ingratitude darkens the heart as nothing else.

You can't over-thank sincerely. The dogs that licked the body of poor old Job, when he was in his sorest need, were but trying to pay him back for previous kindnesses.

It isn't enough to smile and accept favors and good turns. Open up your heart and say things—and after the act is over, repeat it. Gratitude in words is sweeter music than any master ever played on flute, violin or harp.

Don't forget your friends. Overlook their rough spots and love their scars, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Cultivate the art of doing little things that you feel will make the recipient happy and pleased.

Oh, I know these things have been said time and time again. Never mind, do them just the same and grow rich and great.

God's office hours are every day—all day—to all who may choose to call.

God so loved the world that He gave."

"Why! He's Nothing But Skin And Bones"

"MARRY HIM? NEVER"

"Quit kidding me, Agnes; when I get ready to land a man he's got to be a real man with plenty of good healthy flesh on his bones."

"Of course, I dance with Ed; He's a good enough fellow and I just feel sorry for him, but no skinny, hollow cheeked, spindleshanked lath is going to sail the voyage of life with me."

Cheer up, Ed—things aren't as bad as they look to you right now. Many hundreds of skinny, gaunt, emaciated men looked even worse than you do till someone told them about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets (the new way to take Cod Liver Oil) and how it would put pounds of good firm, healthy flesh on their bones in just a few weeks.

Nothing like these health creating, weight producing tablets for skinny, underweight men, as thousands can testify. Start to take them today—60 tablets—60 cents at Sayre & Hemphill's, Sohn's Drug Store, or any real druggist anywhere in North or South America.

And listen; if they don't put 5 pounds of good flesh on you in 30 days, get your money back—that's fair enough, but be sure—very sure that you get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine.

MAN POSTPONES HIS FUNERAL

"I am 66 years old and for the past two years have been suffering so badly from stomach and liver troubles, bloating and colic attacks that I did not expect to live more than a few months and was arranging my affairs and even my funeral. Three doses of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy have entirely cured me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sayre & Hemphill and druggists everywhere adv

HORNICK AND PRINCE ARE EACH FINED $300 AND COSTS BY COURT

Overruling motions for new trials in each case, Judge S. C. Wright imposed fines of $300 and costs each on H. E. Prince, automobile agent, South Detroit Street and John Hornick, proprietor of the Hornick Electric Shop, East Main Street, on charges of keeping gambling rooms, in Probate Court Tuesday afternoon.

Prince was charged with allowing Albert Smith, this city, to record wages on horse races, and sell racing pools while Hornick was accused of allowing Bruce Leveck to commit similar offenses at his place of business.

Days of execution were granted Prince and Hornick under $500 bond each, pending a probable attempt by Attorney C. L. Darlington, counsel for the men to appeal the cases.

Prince and Hornick were victims of a strenuous law enforcement campaign waged by Prosecuting attorney J. C. Marshall against all forms of gambling.

JAWN M'GRAW FLAT ON HIS BACK STILL GIANTS CARRY ON

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, June 3.—It was the common impression during recent years that deep thinking by John McGraw had jockeyed the New York Giants into their succession of pennants, but a glance at the standing of the clubs this morning, augmented by the fact that McGraw has been horsed de shoulder blades for many weeks, rather confutes this theory. Confutes is a five dollar word meaning to leave all wet.

The Giants have won twenty-eight out of forty ball games played to-date and most of them have been conducted without the benefit of McGraw's presence on the bench. While he was enjoying extremely bad health, the club was in the hands of Hughie Jennings, who regards deep thinking a pastime for night watchmen. Mr. Jennings favors deep hitting against the center field fence.

McGraw probably telephoned general instructions to Jennings each morning, including his choice of pitcher. But what of the idea that McGraw had to dictate each move of each man on the ball club. He couldn't telephone instructions to a man at the plate, facing a count of two and one.

The most plausible answer is that McGraw doesn't make the Giants of today any more than the Giants make McGraw. In addition to natural speed and power, they happen to be the most versatile lot within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

Take a look at their present lineup. It gives a few highly illuminating facts on the situation. Could the old Cubs have lost Steinfield, Johnny Evers and Frank Chance and continue to win? It is doubtful. Could the oil Athletics have spared Baker, Collins and McNamara. The answer is 'yes' provided Galli Cured can spare her windpipe.

Yet that is something of the position now occupied by the Giants.

SOUTH FACES GREAT DEVELOPMENT SAYS ROGER BABSON IN SECTIONAL SURVEY

Babson Park, Florida, June 3.—Roger W. Babson today issued the second section of his annual Forecast of Business Conditions covering the entire United States. We are privileged to give an exclusive summary of it, as follows:

"History shows that all great countries pass through two distinct economic movements, each being at their height for from fifty to a hundred years. The first of these movements is when the people gradually move from the East westward. In our country this began in 1849, with the discovery of gold in California, altho it did not reach its height until after the Spanish War. The great development in California has been during the past twenty-five years. This development from East to West continues until the cheap lands have been taken up; then a second great economic movement starts — namely from North to South. This has been true with every great country, and this second era is just now beginning in the United States. If economic history repeats itself, the South, during the next twenty-five years will develop as the Pacific coast has during the last twenty-five years. This does not mean that the development of the Pacific Coast will stop. Let no one fool himself with this idea, because as the people of China, India and the Far East awake and become consumers of American goods, the Pacific Coast's development will be greater than ever. The most spectacular growth, however, from now on in the United States, will be seen in the South. This is best illustrated by the fact that whereas the bank clearings of the entire country, during the past five years, have increased on an average less than six per cent, it is estimated that the bank clearings of representative cities of Florida, during the same five years, have more than doubled.

"Owing to the good road movement now in full swing, and the fifteen million automobiles in the country, this economic movement from North to South should be much more rapid than the previous movement from East to West. This is all the more true considering the greater prosperity of American people today compared with any previous time. Not only does the South possess wonderful natural resources, a beautiful climate, a cheap land, thus insuring an all year round development, but there are five million additional people who could well afford to spend their winters in the South. By so doing, these people could lengthen their lives, on the average of about ten years, and could spare two or three months from home without any interference with their business. It would be a tremendous economic gain for the nation to extend the lives of these people—the ones who create and develop their home communities and who furnish the initiative for America. We are striving to conserve natural resources but the greatest of all resources are the few people in each community who furnish the courage, energy and capital which makes these respective communities grow.

"Every section of the South," says Mr. Babson, "has great possibilities of growth. Every one of the eleven 'Southern States' has distinct advantages which in each case are unique. For instance, the Carolinas have a seacoast which is unequalled in the world; Tennessee leads in climate for all the year round life; Georgia will be America's greatest textile state; Florida is the one tropical state in the union; Alabama is richest in natural resources and is destined to become the greatest industrial state; Mississippi and Louisiana are rich in timber and other forest products and may ultimately grow most of the pulp used for paper making, while in the meantime these states possess the great Mississippi River, the largest waterway in North America. Arkansas is raising wonderful cotton, which is making the finest automobile tires; Oklahoma is supplying us with oil; while Texas is an empire in itself, the possibilities of which have not yet been scratched. When one considers the statistics of these eleven states, he is astounded with their natural resources, the amount of available land, and their percentage of growth. All the South needs is some more people with character, energy and capital. The latter is especially needed because the South already has a population unsurpassed in character. Money, however, is scarce. Long time loans at reasonable rates of interest are very difficult to get in most sections although the security offered is perfectly good.

"Of course we all know that present business conditions are not now up to normal in many southern states. The South has suffered with the rest of the country. Briefly, the situation is as follows:

"NORTH CAROLINA: Present tendencies not altogether satisfactory, but improvement is in sight. Road construction and new building continues to give employment to most resident craftsmen, but the textile industry has been very quiet resulting in considerable unemployment among textile workers. Statistics, however, forecast a better textile year for 1925, and, if so, North Carolina will benefit therefrom.

"SOUTH CAROLINA: Improvement slight but steady. In a general way, the same comments made for North Carolina can be made for South Carolina also—although the cotton crop of South Carolina was off only 33 per cent in value compared with a decline of 45 per cent in the case of North Carolina. The outlook, however, for both states is better for 1925.

"GEORGIA: Improvement has been interrupted by textile conditions, but all are looking forward to a better year in 1925. The cotton crop in Georgia increased in value over 19 per cent compared with last year; while corn showed an increase of 7 percent and tobacco of over 100 percent. Were it not for the textile situation, Georgia would have had an extra good year in 1924 and with the improved textile outlook all are looking very hopefully to 1925.

"FLORIDA: Citrus market unsatisfactory, but new construction and general growth very great. From an economic standpoint Florida may be called the newest state in the Union and hence has many problems to solve,—including the preservation and canning of citrus fruits and juices; but the state is now attracting the attention of capitalists from all over the country. These men are bringing so much new money into the state that local conditions are of secondary importance.

"ALABAMA: All tendencies favorable, with better feeling in the iron and steel industries, coal mine and lumber. Alabama is the Pennsylvania of the South, while Birmingham may sometimes rank Pittsburgh in population and wealth. With its great undeveloped resources of all kinds—including a water power which rivals Niagara—this state has great industrial possibilities. Although 1924 has been quiet in Alabama, as in many other localities, the state is sure to benefit greatly from all improvements and such prosperity as its neighboring states enjoy.

"MISSISSIPPI: General industrial conditions improving. This state has had a fair year and is very hopeful as to 1925. Its diversified industries—cotton, lumber, turpentine, textiles, etc.—tend to stabilize conditions. Moreover, Mississippi's cotton crop was 30 per cent in value above the previous year which makes everyone hopeful.

"TENNESSEE: Outlook somewhat better, tho not up to normal. The same general comment applies to Tennessee. The lumber people are looking to a good year in 1925; the coal mining people are confident of an improvement over 1924; while highway work and general building is very active.

"ARKANSAS: Improvement continuing, and temporary hesitation overcome. The value of the Arkansas cotton crop for 1925 exceeded the previous year by 25 per cent; but Arkansas is now very dependent upon general business conditions throughout the country as a whole. Hence there has been considerable unemployment among the steel plants, paper mills, and especially in the stone, glass and clay industries.

"LOUISIANA: Upward trend has been slow, while oil market was depressed; but higher oil prices should show marked improvement. Louisiana suffered during the past season with a severe drought resulting in considerable unemployment. This, added to the stagnant oil market of 1924, depressed conditions. The sugar and lumber people are, however, optimistic and with good oil prices Louisiana should do better this year.

"OKLAHOMA: Gradual improvement continues. Although the oil, stone, glass and clay products industries are quiet, this state compared with others—insure prosperous today. Mining, ginning, and foundry work are going at full time, while the rail road shops are all busy. Highway construction and new building are also active.

"TEXAS: Trend distinctly better, although results are not yet evidenced. Although the Texas cotton crop was off the season, compared with last year, lumber and oil industries are operating on full time schedule. Building is active with a good volume of new projects being started. Some excess of unskilled labor and slight surplus of building workers at some points, due chiefly to seasonal influx of labor.

"GENERAL CONCLUSIONS: Personally I am very optimistic on the entire South. I believe that the greatest percentage growth of the United States will be in the South during the ten years from 1920 to 1930. The railroad statistics, bank clearings and building permits all indicate this result. Hence I have been bullish on Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line and other southern investments. Florida has saved the Seaboard from a receivership and may put the fertilizer companies back on their feet. Yes, the South is doing more than its share in improving general business. The Babsonchart now shows it as 5 per cent above normal."

THESE OLD FASHIONED HOMES
Oh, I like these homes where the folks ain't rich,
Where style ain't gone to their heads,
Where the father plows, or digs in a ditch,
And they've feathers or shucks in their beds;
Where the cellar's full of fruits and jams
And the shoats are full of chop;
Where the smokehouse hooks are filled with hams
And the pigs lick up the slop.

There's fun in a home where the crickets howl,
Where the organ hums with rats,
Where there is no end to the kitchen towel
And the mice look out for the cats;
Where the hall upstairs is spread with pears
And muddaubsers damb the walls;
Where there ain't no pads nor paint on the stairs
And the boys wear overalls.

In such a home the time that is best
Is when supper all is spread,
When the mother bustles around the nest
And slices the meat and bread;
When the kids look out through the window pane
As the lights are beginning to shine,
When it's time for their dad to come through the rain
From his work in the shop or the mine.

Where there ain't no talk of bonds and stocks,
And the bank account ain't much;
Where the mother knits and darns the socks
And patches the pants and such;
Where the kids all sleep in a loft above
With a rafters overhead--
An old-fashioned home full of old-fashioned love,
But who'd choose another instead?

Junior Cross Word Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle--the first word--is given in the drawing.
Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across.
Word 1. In the picture.
Word 2. A common vine.
Word 3. A girl's name.
Word 4. His clothing was torn.

Running Down.
Word 1. A weak-minded person.
Word 2. A country in northern Africa.
Word 3. To wipe out.
Word 4. What lawns are made of.

XENIANS URGED TO OBSERVE "BETTER MAILING WEEK" NOW

The first week in June has been set aside by officials of the Xenia Post Office and designated as "Better Mailing Week", when an active nation-wide campaign will be waged to reduce, as far as possible, the steadily mounting business of the Dead Letter Office and turn to constructive channels the appalling waste occasioned by misdirected mail.

Last year, 21,618,168 undelivered letters representing an increase of 2,379,426 over the previous year and 863,543 parcel post packages an increase of 109,810, strayed from the rightful owners and were impounded in the Dead Letter Office.

The principle point being stressed in the campaign is to induce the mailer to place the return address on each piece of mail, since it is the lack of return addresses that cause 99% per cent of every 100 letters to go to the Dead Letter Office, it is said.

BERGDOLL STATUS IS NOT AFFECTED

Washington, June 2.—The government's effort to get minor war time draft dodging cases off the federal court docket does not apply to Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, now thought to be hiding in Germany. It was announced at the department of justice today.

The case pending against Bergdoll will hold its present status, officials said, in the hope that he will be captured in an effort to return to the United States.

TWENTY FIVE BABES AT KIWANIS CLINIC

Twenty-five babies, including a number of infants that had not attended before, were examined at the Kiwanis-Social Service League baby clinic at the Court House, Tuesday morning.

Dr. H. C. Messinger and Mrs. H. A. McGowan, in charge, were assisted by Mrs. James D. Adair, Mrs. J. H. Whitmer and Mrs. J. O. McDorman.

J. O. McDorman and Elwood Dunkel, members of the Kiwanis Club, brought the babies to the clinic in their automobiles.

WILL SEND PLANES IN AMUNDSEN SEARCH

London, June 2.—Two naval air planes will be sent by the Norwegian government Friday to search for the Amundsen polar expedition according to news agency dispatches today from Oslo, Norway.

The planes are scheduled to leave Horten, near Oslo Friday by boat for Narvik, where they will hop off in the search for the missing polar flyers.

It was generally believed that Amundsen's party had already set out for Port Columbia, 250 miles south of Greenland, by foot. Authorities here believe his two planes were damaged in landing on rough ice.

RECEIPTS LESS

Receipts at the Greene County Auditor's office during May fell off slightly from the disbursement total during May according to the monthly financial statement completed by County Auditor R. O. Wead Tuesday.

Receipts during the month amounted to $20,616.14 as compared to disbursements of $26,868.42. The report shows a balance on hand of $109,140.98 May 31 as compared to a balance of $115,150.68 April 30.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LXIX.
There was no applying himself to the magazine. He couldn't get his mind on it. Despite the fact that the article before him was alluringly illustrated. With a sigh Michael arose and made his way to Stateroom B, and tapped on the door. There was no response. He opened the door. Lilah was curled up on a seat, staring out into the fast developing darkness.

"Lilah, pal, what's the matter?"

She did not answer him. He sat down on the arm of the seat and sought to take her in his arms. She avoided him.

"What's the matter, honey? Please tell me. Are you?"

"I'm all right. You entertain yourself; and I'd like to entertain myself—alone."

He got up and gazed down at her. "Lilah, this is ridiculous! Surely you're not jealous. I was standing on the platform when she came out and began to talk. I just mumbled a few conventional answers, that's all."

"You seemed to be enjoying the accident."

"Oh, gee Lilah! Don't be foolish! Aw— He left the stateroom. Again he sought to see himself in an interesting article in an interesting magazine. And this time he succeeded in forgetting Lilah's peevishness. Half an hour later she came in to the observation car and sat down by his side. Although there were other persons about, she took his hand and patted it.

"Forgive me," she said softly. "It's the headache I have."

"Shall we go out on the platform?" He took her arm and led the way. The air, gushing down upon them from a range of mountains far in the distance, was bracing.

"I'm a little cool, dear. I'm going to get something to put around my shoulders."

"Let me do it." He moved toward the door.

"No, I'll go. You stay and console the lonely sweet young things." With a faint smile she went back into the car.

Michael was annoyed by all this. He was not conscious of having done anything wrong in being indifferently courteous to the young woman who had spoken to him. He knew that passengers on these trains, thrown together for three or four days, spoke without being introduced. He frowned at the thought that Lilah was like this all of the time.

He sat down in a chair and lighted a cigarette. Far off, on a mountain side, he could see a light. He pictured a lonely mountain cabin. Perhaps it belonged to a hermit—a happy hermit with not a care in the world. "I'd like to live out here," he told himself. But a moment later he was thinking that he wouldn't like to live out here. "It's too darned lonely. I guess it would be pleasant to bury oneself out here about three months of the year." He was musing in this vein when he heard the door snap behind him, and jumped up, supposing it was Lilah. The eyes he looked into were those of "the sweet young thing."

"Doesn't look as if the moon is coming out tonight, does it?" She walked to the edge of the platform and his eyes followed her.

"No, it doesn't." He kept his eyes straight in front of him, upon the glistening bands of steel stretched interminably into the distance.

"It's a wonderful night, isn't it?"

He wanted to say, "Yes, you remarked so before." Instead he seated himself and responded in a more conventional vein. "Yes, it is. Nights are lovely in the desert." He hoped she would go away before Lilah returned.

"Are you going into the movies, too?"

"Oh, no—no," he laughed. Something caused him to glance at the door. Lilah was standing there again.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

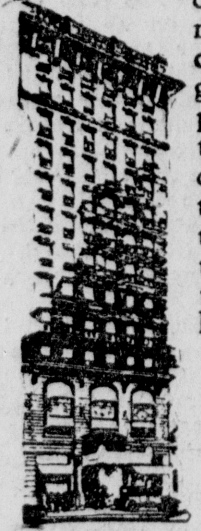

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.
